Drouth Sears Crops of Nation as Grain Prices Soar SPANS CONTINENT AT RECORD SPEED ALL BY DAYLIGHT

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT AS FARMERS PRAY TO SKIES FOR RAIN

Chicago Board of Trade Sends Corn Price Up 7 Cents Per Bushel on Loss Reports.

ESTIMATED DAMAGE OVER HALF BILLION

Army of Snakes Infest Dried Mud of Mississippi, Isolating Vessels Aground in Channel.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(U.N.)—Sizzling heat retained its grip on most of the nation tonight.

It wilted more crops, depleted more water supplies, brought more deaths, started more forest fires and caused the half-billion-dollar damage recorded so far to mount still higher.

Scattered thunderstorms brought a measure of relief to isolated regions, but for the most part the drouth of the past month continued unabated. So great was the crop loss that the price of corn on the Chicago Board of Trade, the nation's biggest grain mart, shot up 7 cents per bushel to more than a dollar for September and May deliveries.

Wheat, also burned and shriveled over most of the northwest, leaped 5 cents per bushel, while oats jumped 3 cents.

"Corn has suffered further and marked deterioration with the damage extending into all states which grow any appreciable amount," said official government reports.

Heat deaths for the week mounted 3,118 when the Mississippi registered 97 in St. Louis, 93 in Kansas City, 93 in Memphis, 87 in Atlanta, 87 in Detroit, and 85 in Baltimore and Minneapolis.

The drouth was so severe in Kentucky that thirsty snakes wriggled down from the hill country to infest the dried mud of the Mississippi river banks, isolating vessels aground in the channel.

The excursion steamer Idlewild, from which 500 passengers were removed when she became stranded on a sandbar in the Mississippi river, was towed off to sea.

In central Illinois the water shortage was so acute that the employees of the Illinois Central were ordered to take baths under "absolutely necessary" conditions.

From the Atlantic and Pacific coasts came word of serious forest fires, aided and abetted by the prolonged drouth.

The blazes swept almost uncontrolled over Cape Cod in Massachusetts, destroying summer cottages, timber land and valuable cranberry bogs. Hundreds of volunteers fought the fires, but they were unable to extinguish many of the fires near Plymouth.

A dozen fires burned in California, the most serious near Colmah, in the northern part of the state. The latest blaze had burned already over 1,200 acres. A force of 150 men was ordered to the scene.

The isolated rains, some of them terrible cloudbursts, drenched parts of Texas, Illinois, Colorado, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska.

The Chicago weather bureau forecast more showers and somewhat lower temperatures in the midwest, but predicted that the heat and the drouth would clamp down even tighter on the eastern seaboard.

Much of the Ohio corn crop "is beyond recovery," the report continued, and the Indiana crop, though reports came from by rains in the north, has been "badly damaged" in the south. In Illinois "damage is increasingly great from north to south and is extremely heavy in the southern half of the state, while the early crop is entirely gone in northern and western Kentucky."

The main Missouri crop "is already lost," the summary asserted, and in the plains states "there was some local relief, but in general the high temperatures and continued drouth caused further deterioration. Iowa experienced an extreme heat wave, and as a result corn is in a "most critical state."

It is much needed in the central states of the cotton belt, if further deterioration of the crop is to be avoided, according to the report. Showers in Texas helped somewhat in southern sections, but in the northern two-thirds of the state there has been considerable drouth. Reports came from Oklahoma and Arkansas. Those from the Atlantic states showed conditions there much more favorable with the cotton crop "mostly good."

Live stock is dying or being sold at sacrifice prices because of a scarcity of water in some sections, especially Kentucky and other parts of the south.

DR. SUTTON HONOR GUEST TONIGHT

Educator Will Be Given Banquet as Civic Recognition at East Lake.

In recognition of his ascendancy to the highest office offered by any public education organization—that of the presidency of the National Education Association to which he recently was elected—several hundred of the most prominent Atlantans, representing every phase of the city's life, will honor Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, this evening at a brilliant dinner to be given at 8 o'clock at the East Lake Country Club.

Few occasions of a similar aim have been witnessed in Atlanta, and when Dr. Sutton, this evening, sits at the head of the banquet board, citizens of this community and of Georgia at large will be paying tribute to the second Georgia and third southern educator to be chosen executive of the N. E. A. In addition, it will be a combined testimonial to Atlanta's esteem of Dr. Sutton's national eminence as an educational personage and a native pride in his record of approximately 30 years of public school activity in Atlanta and vicinity.

More than 250 reservations for the East Lake dinner had been made late Wednesday, it was reported by those in charge of dinner arrangements. Among this number were many high officials of city, county and state, and while those who attend this evening's function are for the most part representative of business, commercial, political and social leadership, there will be a wholesome sprinkling of old pupils and students of the superintendent.

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, will preside at Mr. Sutton's side as toastmaster, and among those who are on the program to deliver addresses are Dean S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia; Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, president of the Georgia Teachers' Association; and Major Robert J. Guinn.

For the last three weeks committees have been busy with mapping plans and perfecting arrangements for the civic tribute incident to Mr. Sutton's elevation. Everything about the affair is being handled with the utmost efficiency.

The general committee which has had charge of arrangements and which also will constitute the large reception group at tonight's function and those of the following: C. H. Lester, Cator Woolford, Kendall Weisiger, Rotary Club; Julian Boehm, Masonic Club; Joe Shaw, Kiwanis Club; C. H. Lester, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Sam E. Levy, Lions Club; B. C. Broyles, Civitan Club; Clark Howell, editor Constitution; J. B. Newell, editor Georgian; Major Cohen, editor Journal; Horace Russell, president Chamber of Commerce; R. S. Barker, secretary Chamber of Commerce; Judge E. C. Kontz, president Georgia Bar Association; J. P. Paxon, president Teachers' Association; A. S. Nance, Atlanta Federation of Trades; Mrs. R. T. Georgia's Debts NOW ONLY ISSUE OF STATE RACE

Mann Warns Party Leaders on Eve of Drive for Fall Votes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A southern uprising against the handling of patronage below the Mason and Dixon line by the administration factions of Postmaster-General Brown arose tonight on the eve of the meeting tomorrow of republican party leaders to select a new chairman for the national committee.

Horace A. Mann, President Hoover's southern campaign manager in 1928, whose followers asserted their independence at a convention in Savannah, Ga., last week, issued the warning, but denied he would attempt to obtain a hearing at tomorrow's meeting of the party's national executive committee.

Mann said the "leading republicans" of the south would not stand for "designing political high-jackers" invading the southland every four years to "rob" her of the right to a legitimate representation at republican national conventions.

"This practice has existed in the past and every worthwhile southerner has the answer to it," he said. "But a new day has dawned in the general order of things, and a process of purification has been brought about, and if anyone doubts the accuracy of this statement, let him attend the next republican national convention and get the proof first hand."

Brown Enters. Postmaster-General Brown himself entered the controversy by saying the resolutions passed at the Savannah meeting of "eight disgruntled men" would not make the "slightest difference in postoffice appointments."

Brown said he belonged to no patronage committee except in so far as appointments to his own department are concerned. He added his sole purpose in setting up advisory committees in four southern states was to "get the best possible postal service, not subject to barter."

"The evils complained of by Brookhart have been discussed in the past by a senate committee headed by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa. While timing his statement to the meeting of the executive committee for tomorrow's meeting, Mann emphasized that the campaign that he was conducting was not a partisan one, but a campaign for the improvement of the postal service, and that he was not in the least interested in the political fortunes of any party."

Four of the gubernatorial candidates have already announced definite plans for meeting the state's financial needs, while the other has made it known that he will do so within a few days. It can be safely predicted that with the revisions to come by way of the campaign that other issues and the personalities of the five candidates will have little or no weight in the selection of the nominee.

Prominent Texas Lawyer Accused of Wife Murder

Police Hide Prisoner as Amarillo Crowds Threaten Violence—Tear Gas Bombs Ordered.

STINNETT, Texas, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney, charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Eva Payne, in a bomb explosion June 27 tonight admitted his guilt and said he would make a confession as soon as he had talked to a brother, Sidney Payne.

AMARILLO POLICE FEAR VIOLENCE. AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Crowds gathered tonight on Amarillo street corners after filing of murder charges against A. D. Payne, prominent local attorney, accused of killing his wife by placing a bomb in the car which she was driving.

Feeling was tense against the attorney and officials prepared to cope with possible outbreaks of violence. Telegraphic orders were placed for tear gas bombs, hand grenades and riot guns by Sheriff W. H. Thompson and the police department. Officials said they anticipated trouble when Payne is brought back to this county for arraignment on the murder charge.

Payne's whereabouts was kept secret. Rumors placed him in a half dozen near-by towns. Sheriff Thompson said Payne maintained his innocence but that he had made a statement to Edward W. Thompson, district attorney, concerning the case. The officers refused to divulge the nature of the statement but said he considered it trivial.

A report received tonight said Payne had planned to commit suicide but was prevented by the abruptness of his arrest by officers.

Mayor Ernest O. Thompson announced he personally would aid in the prosecution of Payne.

Gene Howe, militant Amarillo editor, brought about arrest of the attorney by conducting an investigation of Mrs. Payne's death at her husband's request. Howe, who gained considerable notoriety for his criticisms of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh as a Mary Garden a few months ago, explained what happened.

Story of Crime. Mrs. Payne drove the family automobile downtown last June 26. Riding with her was a young son, A. D. Payne, who was 17 years old.

When she had traveled a few blocks the car became filled with smoke. "I didn't know what to do," said the boy, "but I saw a man get out of the car and run away. Just then the car was blown from the ground when an explosion of nitroglycerine shattered the machine on one of Amarillo's main streets. Mrs. Payne was catapulted to her death through the roof. Her son was injured critically, but recovered later."

It was believed at first that the bomb, attached apparently to explode after the engine became hot, had been meant for Payne.

He professed his grief, offered a $5,000 reward for capture of the bomber and finally asked Howe, editor of the Amarillo Globe, to conduct an independent investigation of the slaying.

Woman Confesses. Howe died in A. B. McDonald, detective for the Kansas City Star, and together they conducted an inquiry which brought a signed confession from pretty Mrs. Verona Thompson, Payne's former secretary, and arrest of Payne.

She charged that Payne had promised to marry her after he had "taken care" of his wife.

"The good Lord must have had me by the hand," Police quoted Mrs. Thompson as saying. "He might have killed me as he did his poor wife."

Authorities said Payne denied all her charges vigorously before they smuggled him from the city after a mob had searched the jails for him here and at Pampa, 60 miles away.

Insured Family. Murder charges were filed against him today, however, by District Attorney E. J. Thompson, after further investigation revealed that Payne recently had taken out $30,000 life insurance for his wife, $10,000 for Bobbie Jean.

His son said Payne usually drove the family automobile to work; but that on the morning of the bombing, which he would walk for the exercise and suggested that Mrs. Payne drive the children to the city later.

SPANS CONTINENT AT RECORD SPEED ALL BY DAYLIGHT

Actual Time in Air Was 13 Hours 35 Minutes and 43 Seconds, Allowing for Stops.

MADE FIVE STOPS TO REFUEL PLANE

Stormy Weather Forced Aviator Off Course; Will Seek West-East Record in Few Days.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Traveling at an average speed of 170 miles per hour, Frank Hawks, Los Angeles flyer, landed his low winged monoplane at the municipal airport here at 4:50:43 p. m., Pacific standard time, today just 14 hours, 50 minutes and 43 seconds from the time he took off from Curtiss field, New York.

While there was no comparable transcontinental speed flight, Hawks lowered by 3 hours, 52 minutes, 11 seconds the one-stop east-west record established by Roscoe Turner last May 27. He completed the first full daylight flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Hawks made refueling stops at Columbus, Ohio; St. Louis, Mo.; Wichita, Kan.; Albuquerque, N. M.; and Kingman, Ariz.

Fighting stormy weather throughout most of the 2,600-mile journey, Hawks said he flew at altitudes ranging from 5,000 to 14,000 feet. He encountered rains between Pittsburgh, Pa., and Terre Haute, Ind.; had fairly clear weather from Terre Haute to Albuquerque and severe rains and storms from Albuquerque to Needles, Cal. He said he was forced to fly high and considerably off his course to avoid bad weather over Arizona.

The flyer was met here by 200 aviation enthusiasts, including Turner, whose record he broke, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hawks. The pilot said he was tired and "glad to get here." He climbed from his plane attired in golf togs and with clubs swung over his shoulder.

"Well, Frank, all set for a game of golf?" his father asked as he shook hands with the pilot.

"Let's postpone it until tomorrow, dad," Hawks replied. "I'm off my game today."

Hawks said his plane had a top speed of 165 miles during the 14-hour, 50-minute headwind cut his speed most of the way.

"I was on the ground exactly one hour and 15 minutes during the 14-hour, 50-minute flight," Hawks said, "making my actual flying time 13 hours, 35 minutes, 43 seconds. The plane and motor functioned perfectly, and the trip was pleasant except for bad weather. The plane is equipped with a radio."

Hawks said he planned to have the motor gone over immediately and if the weather was right he would leave the last of this week on a return flight to New York which he hoped to make in 12 hours. 100 DEGREES IN TEN CITIES. Aug. 6.—(AP) Cities reported to the weather bureau today as having had temperatures of 100 degrees or higher yesterday were only half as numerous as those of the day preceding.

They included: Baltimore, 104; Washington, 102; Charlotte, N. C., 100; Nashville, Tenn., 100; Knoxville, Tenn., 100; Louisville, Ky., 100; Evansville, Ind., 100; St. Joseph, Mo., 100.

Phoenix and Yuma, Ariz., traded

DROUTH SENDS GRAIN PRICES SOARING.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Something like the spirit of yesterday came back to the grain pits today. The plague of drouth in the cornfields and trust in Canadian wheat lands brought traders fighting for elbow room in the board of trade pits to bid for wheat and corn with a fervor not seen in months.

Wheat, whose value had ebbed in recent months until it sold a week ago at 83-8 cents a bushel, the lowest in 16 years, spurted up 5 to 6-1-8 cents from yesterday's close and was 12 cents above the record low. Corn kept ahead as the pace-maker, adding 6-7-8 to 7-7-8 cents a bushel to its worth and selling at 41-2 cents better than wheat.

Frantic traders shouted themselves hoarse trying to execute buying orders, with public participation in the market doubled since yesterday. In the corn pit the advance was so rapid that a cent a minute was added in one brief interval and in the crowded pits quotations around the rim and at the bottom of the circle varied widely in the swift trading.

Wheat and corn both edged up above the dollar mark. September wheat finished the day at 96-3-8 to 7-8 cents; December $1.02-1-2 to 7-8 cents; March $1.07-1-2 to $1.08, and May $1.10 to 3-8. September corn ended at $1.01 to 3-8; December 97-1-4 to 1-2; March 96-7-8 cents to $1.00-1-8 and May $1.01-5-8.

CROPS DAMAGED IN COTTON STATES.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Crops have been severely damaged by drouth and heat in Mississippi and Louisiana and other cotton-growing states. Dr. I. M. Cline, weather meteorologist for the United States weather bureau, reported today in a survey he has prepared to submit to President Hoover.

"Much corn and other crop are beyond recovery in the northern part of Louisiana," the report said. "Stock water is scarce in some sections. Cotton deteriorated on uplands where wilting, shedding and premature opening are reported with condition of the late crop approaching a failure."

Scattered showers on the last day of the present reporting week, Tuesday, said Dr. Cline, were "very beneficial but more rain is needed," in the heat belt of north Louisiana.

The report said that showers in the southern part of the state have improved condition of the cane and rice crops, cotton bolls in the south and central sections are opening rap-

Tom Brown Plays Saxophone

Revision of Constitution Urged by Professor Lutz

Changes Necessary Before Adjustment of System Can Be Had, Tax Expert Declares.

Tom Brown, leader of famous "Six Brown Brothers" and priceless great-grand-daddy of the saxophone, made in 1812.

About the year 1812, when Napoleon Bonaparte was retreating so disastrously from Moscow, one Adolph Sax invented a new instrument. It is called the saxophone. You have undoubtedly heard it.

This week at the Capitol theater in Atlanta, Tom Brown, leader of the most famous vaudeville organizations ever known, the Six Brown Brothers, is playing a saxophone that was made by Monsieur Adolph Sax in the year 1812. That record is engraved upon the instrument.

It is constructed of brass, with copper keys, and looks very different from the saxophones of today. It is straight, for one thing, without that pipe bowl effect we are used to. Tom Brown says that the old instrument possesses a tone that none of the modern-day saxophones can equal. "They now turn 'em out by machinery," he says, "and you can't get the perfect tone unless an instrument is made by the hand of a master who loves the work he is doing."

The historical instrument was given to Tom Brown by Dr. H. W. Waggoner, of Los Angeles, a connoisseur and collector of reed instruments. The idly and picking is making good progress.

In Mississippi, continued the report, "progress of gardens, pastures and truck is generally very poor. Late corn made poor progress and early mostly deteriorated badly." During the past week there were "occasional showers," said the Mississippi report, "mostly in east and south with hot weather throughout the state. Early cotton made fairly good progress on bottom lands and where local rains occurred, but only fair progress elsewhere, with the late crop showing serious deterioration or poor progress."

TROOPS ARE RUSHED TO HANKOW BY BRITISH

BY RANDALL GOULD.
United News Staff Correspondent.
SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 6.—(UN)—British troops stationed in Shanghai have rushed to Hankow by the Yangtze river to reinforce the foreign forces at that central China port, reported menaced by Chinese communist bands.

The United States forces at Hankow and in that vicinity, some 600 miles up the Yangtze, in the heart of the troubled area, were believed sufficient at present to protect American interests there.

A number of American gunboats have been ordered to put landing parties ashore if necessary to protect Americans and their property.

The British contingent included 150 men and officers from the Green Howards, a crack regiment stationed in Shanghai most of the time since the crisis in the spring of 1927. They left on the steamship Suifu for Hankow.

Another detachment of 50 men from the same regiment was ordered to proceed to Hankow within 24 hours.

On Warship.
The British soldiers will be quartered on board the British warship Cumberland, ready to land in the event of an emergency.

The United States has the fourth regiment of marines stationed at Shanghai. They have been here since March, 1927.

The foreign forces patrolling the Yangtze valley have concentrated at Hankow on the north bank of the river, but the river gunboats, comparatively small craft, able to navigate in three feet of water, continued to keep in close touch with Kiating, 90 miles below Hankow toward Shanghai.

Kiating was believed the point in most danger of new attack. It is on the south bank of the river, and more accessible to the infantry and mounted communist bandit "armies."

Kiating, however, is a comparatively small town, with few, if any, foreigners remaining at present. Foreign gunboats, however, continue to remain in that vicinity to protect foreign property there, chiefly British.

Passenger ships in the river at Hankow-to-Changshah service reported villages west of Kiating were in flames.

Nanking reported government troops had reached Hankow, reinforcing the local garrison there, and that confidence was restored. Chinese gunboats have joined the fleet of foreign warships in the river.

The Japanese were reported to have eight gunboats at Hankow, while four destroyers were due at Shanghai today from Japan to aid in the river patrol. The British have two warships at Hankow and others in the vicinity, while three French vessels were among the foreign vessels standing off the bund.

Italians Move.
One report said Italian gunboats were proceeding up the river above Hankow, attempting to locate and subdue marauding bands of the Chinese communists.

Meantime, Shanghai was interested in a report from Nanking that General Chiang Kai-shek, founder and head of the national government at Nanking, had offered his resignation to the state council.

The report came in a telegram from the Nanking branch of an American firm in Shanghai.

Previous reports had said the Shanghai bankers demanded the successful termination of the present war by the end of this month. They were said to have threatened to refuse further financial support to Nanking if Chiang Kai-shek could not meet this demand and control the country.

The report of the president's resignation was not confirmed in other sources in Shanghai.

Revision of Constitution Urged by Professor Lutz

Changes Necessary Before Adjustment of System Can Be Had, Tax Expert Declares.

Changes in the constitution of Georgia, described by him as "a fearful and wonderful thing," are necessary before a full and complete revision of the state's system of revenue can be had, Professor Harley L. Lutz, Princeton University economist, who has been employed by Governor Hardman to make a two-month survey of Georgia's tax system, declared in a statement issued at the capitol Wednesday.

"The requirements that intangible property (in the constitution) be taxed at the same rates as other property," Lutz said in his statement, "is impossible to apply and its presence in the constitution leads to evasion on the part of property owners with the knowledge and consent of the tax officials. This demoralizing situation must be remedied by eliminating the uniform rule and authorizing the use of modern methods of taxing intangibles."

While Professor Lutz, who outlined the scope of his work and some of his objectives before the Georgia Tax Revision Association, formed at Macon Tuesday, is making a survey of the tax problem, D. P. Miller, member of the New York firm of Searles, Miller & Company, organization specialists, will make a survey of the state's financial structure and of its administrative organization.

Both surveys, it has been said at the office of Governor Hardman, will be in harmony, the one dovetailing with the other. That undertaken by Lutz, who will have the assistance of Professor M. H. Bryan, of the University of Georgia, and state officials, has been endorsed by the Georgia Tax Revision Association. Miller S. Bell, Millidgeville banker, who was chosen head of the association, stated Wednesday that he was not familiar with the plan for the Miller survey but that he supposed an inquiry into the state's financial structure was timely and important.

Mr. Bell also stated that he would be unable to attend a second meeting of the revision association, which will be held in Atlanta next Tuesday and attended by state officials and the group of Georgia businessmen who have launched a movement to get the state on a safe financial basis without impairing the efficiency of state institutions.

Miller and Lutz, after conferring Wednesday with R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner; Governor Hardman and others, left for New York. It was announced that upon their return in the next few weeks a full and comprehensive statement of their work will be given to the public.

Lutz Statement.
The full text of the Lutz statement follows:

"The full and complete revision of the Georgia revenue system will involve certain changes in the state constitution.

"The requirement that intangible property be taxed at the same rates as other property is impossible to apply, and its presence in the constitution leads to evasion on the part of property owners, with the knowledge and consent of the tax officials. This demoralizing situation must be remedied by eliminating the uniform rule and authorizing the use of modern methods of taxing intangibles."

"Reforestation is penalized and hindered by heavy annual taxes while the timber crop is maturing. A more liberal constitution would permit the use of forest taxes adjusted to the yield of the forest.

"All progressive states have made such changes and Georgia must join with them or definitely remain with the few remaining backward, unprogressive states in taxation reform."

"The state's system of business taxes is in many ways illogical and out of balance. It penalizes domestic corporations by taxing their entire net income, when their business is done and their capital is employed in many states other than Georgia."

"The system of tax administration has not been improved and built up as the tax system itself has grown. In order to assure an equitable distribution of the tax burden the state should introduce a modern and efficient tax administrative organization. One of the greatest causes of complaint against taxation is removed when each taxpayer realizes that taxes are being collected equitably from all who should contribute. This result depends largely on efficient and impartial tax administration."

SAFE AS ANY METHOD OF CAPTURE.
N. C. Sherman, of Lindsay, Cal., picking up the hood of his car after a long drive found a rattlesnake coiled about the tax belt of his car. It was still alive as Sherman found out when he poked it with a stick, but it had only one button left on its rattle, the others apparently being lost in the tussle with the fan belt. Sherman killed it.

INVESTIGATION ASKED INTO PATRICK DEATH

Intimating the possibility of foul play in the death of her sister, Mrs. Lennie P. Patrick, 24, of 302 Courtland street, after a coroner's jury Tuesday returned a verdict of "death from causes unknown," Mrs. J. C. Jenkins, of Savannah, called the local detective headquarters shortly before midnight Wednesday and requested that a probe of the death be made.

The young woman fell against a radio cabinet Monday morning and retired to her room, stating that she felt ill. Neighbors later attempted to rouse her and when unsuccessful summoned an ambulance. On arrival at Grady hospital Mrs. Patrick was pronounced dead.

A coroner's jury Tuesday returned the verdict that she had met her death from causes unknown, stating the opinion that the blow on the head occasioned by her fall was not sufficient to cause death. Coroner Paul Donohoe expressed the opinion, however, that no foul play was apparent.

Mrs. Jenkins, who was present at the inquest, stated that an examination for poison probably would be made in Savannah, where the body was taken Tuesday night.

Household Electricity

now costs 17.1% less than in 1928

The cost of the service must necessarily be paid out of the revenue; every unnecessary burden placed upon the utility must, of necessity, be paid for by the customer, and to that extent affects the quantity and quality of the service and the rate that must be charged.

P. S. ARKWRIGHT,
President

IN ALL the territory served by Georgia Power Company, the average cost of residential electric service has been reduced from 7.16 cents per kilowatt hour in 1928 to 5.91 cents in 1929. This is a reduction of 17.1 per cent in one year.

These figures include all charges, service charges as well as the cost of the electric power itself.

If residential service during 1929 had been billed at the same rate as it was in 1928, the citizens of Georgia served by this Company would have paid during 1929 a total of $600,000 more than they actually did pay.

Electric service is the one item in the family budget which costs less than it did before the World War. And the service is better, as well as cheaper. It is more dependable, of higher quality and available to many thousands in the small towns and on the farms who a few years ago were cut off from this modern advantage.

Such reductions are the result of constant effort toward finding ways to produce and distribute electricity more economically. They are the product of millions poured into new equipment, new methods, greater efficiency throughout the system.

RUN OVER BY TRUCK, EDWARD WHITE DIES

Veteran Member of Typographical Union Was Widely Known Here.

Edward W. White, 62, 1342 May avenue, S. E., employee of The Constitution for 13 years and a prominent member of the Typographical Union for 42 years, died at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night at Grady hospital from injuries received earlier in the day at Moreland and Glenwood avenues, where he was struck down and crushed beneath the wheels of a heavy truck.

He was hit while crossing the street to board a street car, and thrown beneath the wheels of the truck, suffering a fractured skull. C. M. James, of 679 Moreland avenue, passing in his automobile, rushed the injured man to Grady hospital. He never regained consciousness.

The driver of the truck, a negro, halted his machine and attempted to help the injured man, but bystanders detained him until the arrival of Officer S. C. Wallace, who, after investigation, carried the negro to police station and docketed a charge of reckless driving against him. At the station the negro gave his name and address as George Gurley, of 93 Selma street, and later was released under $500 bond.

Mr. White was one of the best-known printers in Atlanta, having worked on all three daily papers and having served as foreman of the composing room of the Journal 20 years ago. For the past 13 years he had been an "ad man" in The Constitution composing room. About 31 years ago he and his brother, Sam White, now deceased, formed the Atlanta Federation of Trades and were largely instrumental in organizing the Georgia Federation of Labor.

Born and reared in Lexington, Ky., Mr. White attended the University of Kentucky, and while in his early twenties graduated with honors. Taking up his printing career soon thereafter, he worked on the Cincinnati Enquirer for eight years and later moved to Savannah, Ga., where he was employed on the Savannah Press. He had worked in Atlanta for 23 years.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by J. Austin Dillon Company.

Mr. White leaves his widow, three sons, C. M. and Samuel W. White, of Atlanta, and Ulric White, of St. Louis, who had been visiting here and who returned to St. Louis the night before the accident; three daughters, Misses Louise and Irmaline White and Mrs. Henrietta Alexander; his mother, Mrs. Emma White, of Indianapolis, Ind., and two sisters, Misses Mamie and Bertie White, also of Indianapolis.

GEORGIA DEBTS NOW ONLY ISSUE

definite and specific program very soon.

It is already indicated that the majority of these plans will differ widely in the method recommended to put the state back on its feet financially and that none of them will coincide in all of their details. A full opportunity thus will be presented to the voters to make a free expression of their preference as to the method to be followed in paying the state's debts.

With the gubernatorial nomination thus hanging practically entirely upon the one issue of the balancing of the books of the state, the result of the election can be taken by the solons of the state, in case they are called together in extra session, as amounting to practically a direct referendum, and as such undoubtedly will either dictate or, at least, largely influence their deliberations.

Perry Suggests Another Method

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 6.—(Special.) Use of the state-owned property in Chattanooga for the payment of state debts, provided Governor Hardman calls a special session of the general assembly and includes it in his call was pointed out here tonight by James A. Perry as a perfectly feasible manner of ridding the state of debt without encroaching upon funds now being used for any other purpose.

Mr. Perry deplored the necessity of friends of the state university having to come to Atlanta whenever the legislature is in session and begging for funds with which to operate, and said that the reflection was unfair to the university and unfair to the men who were obliged to beg for money that should be given gratefully. He said that this was the fault of the political system under which the state was operated. Continuing, he said:

"Our state is in debt. There is no money for the schools, the teachers, the old soldiers or the various state institutions. This condition must be changed. The bills must be paid. I suggest two methods, either of which will afford quick relief.

"It is currently reported that Governor Hardman will call a special session of the general assembly within the very near future. The state owns some very valuable property in Chattanooga that is in no sense essential to the operation of the state railroad. This property can, in any one of several ways, be made to produce a very large sum of money, if Governor Hardman calls the special session and if he includes consideration of such a thing in his call. Another way to get the money quickly is to divert some portion, temporarily, of the highway fund. The tag money will not be enough. It will take the tag money for a year, and a part of the gasoline tax.

"Using the Chattanooga property would relieve the necessity of disturbing the road building program. But keep in mind the fact that those debts must be paid, and without any increase in taxes. If I am elected governor they are going to be paid, and there will be no tax increase. And there will never be an appropriation bill signed until the money it calls for has been provided out of debt just as speedily as any man in the world could do it. And you may be very sure that I will see that we keep out."

Russell Again Urges Anticipating Rentals

CANTON, Ga., Aug. 6.—(Special.) Declaring that the debts of the state to the school teachers, the pensioners and the sanitarium for the insane should be promptly paid without "paralyzing or delaying highway construction in Georgia," Richard B. Russell, Jr., criticized the plan offered by two of his opponents, James A. Perry and George H. Carswell.

"The state cannot and will not repudiate these debts but there is no necessity for crippling the work of the highway department to pay them. I propose to pay these debts promptly and without stopping building roads in Georgia. We can pay such amount as is left unpaid by funds derived from the new tax legislation by anticipating the rentals of the W. & A. railway, which amount to over $500,000 per year and we can save another $500,000 annually by abolishing and consolidating departments and effecting economies in our government."

"The plan I am advocating will pay these debts many months sooner than they can possibly be paid under the Perry-Carswell plan and will not stop any necessary progress in the state or delay or impair highway construction."

Russell charged that Carswell had built a political machine in the auto tag department.

"After Mr. Carswell has secured use of the machines, a method is discovered suddenly by which business of the department can be handled next year, dispensing with the services of more than 100 employees," he said.

The recent announcement that stamping machines will be substituted for a part of the machine in his office is recognition of the fight I have been making to abolish useless political jobs."

Carswell Criticizes Plans of Opponents

BAXLEY, Ga., Aug. 6.—(Special.) Urging his plan to use the income one year from sale of auto tags to pay the back debts of the state, and saying that his suggestion had literally struck his opponents "dumb" for a few days, George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, spoke here today in the Appling county courthouse.

"John N. Holder says the plan would cripple road-building," said the speaker, "and yet during the whole time he was chairman of the road board he never spent as much in one year on the roads as would be left under my plan—$14,000,000. While Mr. Holder was chairman of the board and when the income for road purposes was much less than would be available the year the tag tax would be reverted, he proclaimed that the income then was sufficient to complete the roads in Georgia."

"James A. Perry agrees with my plan, but would go further and take enough from the gasoline fund to supplement the tag tax in liquidating the debts. To do this would be to further cut into the school fund by taking the amount received from the one-cent per gallon tax on gasoline, which would cripple the current income."

"Dick Russell, who created the debts by casting the deciding vote in its favor while speaker of the house in 1927, must have a short memory or is woefully ignorant on the status of the W. & A. income. He proposes that these funds be pledged for this purpose. Mr. Russell was a member of the legislature that 'sold' these funds until 1933, and to further pledge this amount would be so costly on account of the excessive rate of discount that would be asked, as to make this suggestion ridiculous. Besides, the deficit for 1930 is estimated at $1,500,000, and you save nothing by using this year's funds to pay back debts."

Tag Distribution Discussed by Rivers

DALLAS, Ga., Aug. 6.—(Special.) Declaring that he favored distribution of automobile license tags through county officials and condemning the present distribution of being awarded to the lowest bidder, E. D. Rivers, candidate for governor, spoke here Wednesday morning.

I have two reasons for favoring county distribution, he said. "First, it will prove equally convenient for all the people throughout the state. Second, the collection fees, while no larger than the present method, will be levied in banks throughout the state and benefit more people than when such collection is left in the hands of a favored few at the state capitol."

Holder Would Insist On Debts Being Paid

NASHVILLE, Ga., Aug. 6.—(Special.)—In an address here today John N. Holder, candidate for governor, emphasized the necessity of the debts of the state being paid in full, declaring:

"If I am elected governor I shall, at the very outset of my administration, send a special message to the legislature insisting that provision be made to pay all unpaid appropriations including those to the schools, the university and its branches, the state sanitarium for the insane at Milledgeville, and the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, the pensioners and all other unpaid appropriations. I am glad to note that a number of my opponents have joined me in the declaration that the state must not fail to pay off these obligations."

Slaton Charges Are Reiterated

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

John Slaton's campaign manager, Hewlett A. Hall, Wednesday likened Senator William J. Harris to the boxer "who claims a foul every time his opponent hits him," while Mr. Harris took time off from his campaign for re-nomination to deliver a memorial address at Jackson, Ga.

The reply of the Harris headquarters to Governor Slaton's radio speech Monday night is exactly like the boxer in the ring who claims a foul every time his opponent hits him, said Mr. Hall. "The public does not admire such tactics in boxing and admires it even less in politics."

"If Governor Slaton has 'misrepresented' the record of Senator Harris, let the senator be specific and state in what particular. If it is not true that Senator Harris has voted for appropriations aggregating $55,000,000 in 10 years; let him deny it and we will prove it."

"If it is not true that Senator Harris has flooded the state with campaign literature, printed on government stationery and sent through the mails under the senator's frank, let him deny it and we will prove it."

"If it is not true that Senator Harris even used his frank to ship typewriters from his senatorial office in Washington to his campaign headquarters in Atlanta, let him deny it and we will prove it."

Harris at Jackson. Senator Harris spoke the unveiling of a marker for the grave of Robert Smith, a revolutionary soldier, near Jackson. The William McIntosh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, had charge of the exercises. The senator lauded the spirit that prompted the early patriots to set up a government founded on liberty and freedom.

Governor Slaton spoke at Alpharetta, Milton county, and renewed his attack on Senator Harris for failing to vote to confirm Judge Parker, of North Carolina, as a member of the United States supreme court.

At night the former governor spoke at Canton, stating that governmental extravagance by the next congress will depend upon the votes of the people this fall.

"Harris, high taxes and hard times is not a pleasant issue for Senator Harris to face," he declared, "but he made his record and he must defend it, without the White House assistance that elevated him to the senate."

Voters Asked To Check Eligibility for Election

J. C. Harrison, secretary of the county board of registration, Wednesday issued a statement in which he requested that all voters who for any reason believe that their names have been omitted from the lists should check their eligibility to cast their ballots in the coming primary prior to August 10. Mr. Harrison pointed out the reduction of the county voting list from 69,333 to 27,334, and declared that the lists now purged of all the names of those disqualified by the board will be sent to the public printers on that date.

He likewise called attention to the probability of omission of the names from the lists of voters who have moved from one ward to another, who made late returns, or who have failed to vote giving their names slightly different from the names in which they return taxes.

O'Connor Asks Rates On Equitable Basis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(P)—T. V. O'Connor, shipping board chairman, said today unless members of the United States intercoastal conference agreed to regulate freight rates on an equitable basis, he would seek congressional authority to have the shipping board regulate them.

At a meeting at the shipping board conference members were told by O'Connor that unless satisfactory rates were worked out he would seek to have the shipping board given authority on intercoastal water commerce similar to that given the interstate commerce commission on railroads.

Complaints that many non-conference lines were doing a "cut-rate" business on freight handled between eastern and western coasts were heard at the meeting.

Members of the conference told the board business had decreased 25 or 35 per cent and many boats were idle.

Lines represented in the intercoastal conference were American-Hawaiian, Arrow, Dollar, Luckenbach, Munson-McCormick, Nelson, Quaker, Williams, Argonaut. Non-members of the conference represented included Panama-Pacific, Calmar, Dimon, Isthmian, Shepard, and Union Sulphur.

Georgia Banking Situation Good

Deposits in Georgia banks have held up "unusually well" and the banking situation as a whole looks to be very satisfactory, A. B. Mobley, superintendent of banks, said in a report of conditions as of June 30 made public Wednesday.

The 321 banks reporting on that date he said, showed an increase of $348,000 in surplus funds, $316,000 in undivided profits and $186,000 in reserve funds. The decrease in deposits of a little more than $3,000,000 was described as seasonal.

Payment of a 5 per cent dividend to the depositors in the Lakewood bank, which failed last year, was also announced by Superintendent Mobley Wednesday. The payment brought the total apportioned to stockholders to 95 per cent.

Federal Inspectors After Phoney Trees

Examination of Georgia fruit trees for evidence of the phoney fruit disease has resulted in the destruction of 72,803 of 6,818,400 trees inspected by W. F. Turner and a crew of workers from the federal bureau of plant industries, Turner reported to Manning S. Yoemans, state entomologist, Wednesday.

Yoemans, in commenting on the findings of federal inspectors, said that for the past several weeks they had been in the area where the disease has been most prevalent. He expects, when the findings are complete, that a decrease over last year's damage will be shown. Approximately 40 inspectors are in the field.

Police Band To Sponsor Midnight Show Sunday

A "midnight frolic" will be given at Keith's Georgia theater Sunday night under the auspices of the Atlanta Police band, the proceeds to be used to send band members to the annual convention of Spanish-American War Veterans to be held in Philadelphia August 18 and 19, where they will help local leaders make a bid for the new War Veterans' home.

The new home will be constructed at a cost of approximately $3,000,000 and there will be an annual expenditure of more than $250,000 for maintenance.

The band will leave Atlanta August 18.

Texas Negro Is Shot In Prohibition Raid

TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug. 6.—(P)—Ernest G. Wells, federal prohibition agent, today shot and killed Herbert Richardson, negro, during a liquor raid in a negro residence. He alleged self-defense.

Wells said as he returned from a liquor search in the kitchen of the house he saw Richardson quarreling with Jack E. Harrington, another agent, and intervened. Richardson dropped behind another negro and pointed a gun directly at the agent, he said. After aiming first at the negro's gun, Wells said he then shot to kill.

Bee Cowen, of Beaumont, deputy prohibition administrator, who led a series of raids in the county today, exhibited a loaded automatic pistol which he said had been taken from the negro's body.

Confessed Murderer Tells of Marriage

GULFPORT, Miss., Aug. 6.—(P)—Leonard Thompson, 19, of Shawnee, Okla., today told officers that 24 hours after he had fatally beaten Frank A. Webb, Jr., 33-year-old New Orleans lumber inspector, he had been married to Miss Lucy Belle McKinley, 21, of Perdido, Ala.

Thompson was brought here by Harrison county officers from Bay Minette, Ala., after his arrest and confession to attacking Webb with a bottle near White Harbor, Miss., last Wednesday night. Thompson was arrested soon after Webb's body was found in a thicket near White Harbor.

Thompson told officers here that he struck Webb during an argument over a small quantity of liquor after Webb had advanced on him with a razor.

He said he dragged the unconscious man into the thicket, took $17 from his pockets, and then "himself" still alive, drove off in Webb's automobile. He went directly to Perdido, where he said he met Miss McKinley while farming there a year ago. He said he intended to use Webb's car to take his bride on a honeymoon to Oklahoma.

The girls' first intimation that her husband was wanted for murder came from officers at Perdido as she and her husband were preparing for their honeymoon trip.

U. of Georgia Dean Awarded World Traveling Fellowship

Dr. Preston Brooks of School of Commerce, Will Sail for Orient This Month.

Dr. Preston Brooks, dean of the school of commerce at the University of Georgia, Athens, has been awarded the 1930 traveling fellowship of the Albert Kahn Foundation, of New York, the foundation announced Wednesday.

Dr. Brooks will sail from San Francisco, August 30, on a trip around the world under the provisions of the fellowship. The award includes $5,000.

The Kahn traveling fellowships were established some 15 years ago by an eminent French banker named Albert Kahn. His idea was to foster the growth of international goodwill by making it possible for a number of European and American scholars to travel around the globe, meeting like-minded people and exchanging views and information about their respective countries.

One Awarded in U. S.

Only one fellowship is annually awarded in the United States. For the purposes of the foundation the country is divided into several sections and this year it was the turn of the southeastern states to receive the award. Dr. Brooks, to whom the fellowship for the next academic year was given, has been connected with the University of Georgia almost continually since he entered the institution as a boy in 1901. On completing his A. B. work he was given the first Rhodes scholarship from Georgia and spent three years at Brasenose College, Oxford, receiving the A. B. degree in 1904 in the school of modern history.

Returning to the university in 1907 as a member of the history department, Dr. Brooks has remained ever since, except for the year 1911-1912, when he went on leave to the University of Wisconsin, and earned a Ph. D. degree there in one year. His thesis was called "The Agrarian Revolution in Georgia," and was a study of the changes in agriculture in Georgia, consequent to a civil war and the destruction of slavery. In addition to that volume, Dr. Brooks has written many articles on historical subjects, particularly in the field of Georgia and southern history.

Dean in 1920.

In 1920 Dr. Brooks became head of the school of commerce of the university, a school which has recently been housed in the great building erected by the war memorial fund for the joint occupancy of the school of commerce and journalism. As a phase of the commerce work, Dr. Brooks organized in 1928 a bureau of business research, which bureau is now making a thorough study of the taxation problems of Georgia.

Dr. Brooks is also director of the Institute of Public Affairs, which in July had a very successful session. It was largely as a result of his connection with this institute that the Kahn fellowship was given him.

Sailing from San Francisco, August 30, on the Japanese liner Chichibu Maru, Dr. Brooks will proceed direct to Japan. After three weeks there he will go to China for a three months' study of conditions. His itinerary then will take him via the Philippines and the East Indian Archipelago to India. In that troubled land, Dr. Brooks will spend three months. His effort will be to understand the causes of the civic commotions in China and India, and later in Egypt as well. About July 1, 1931, Dr. Brooks will return to Europe, joining his family in France. Mrs. Brooks and the three daughters, Josephine, Gene and Anne, sail from New York on August 22 and will spend the year on the continent.

The board of trustees have given Dr. Brooks a year's leave of absence in order that he may accept this fellowship. The board has designated Professor John W. Jenkins, second in rank in the school of commerce, to act as dean during the year. Mr. R. D. Moore, recently graduated from the Harvard Graduate School of Business, has been appointed for one year to conduct some of the classroom work commonly done by Dr. Brooks. Professor Malcolm H. Bryan will have the directorship of the institute of public affairs.

MOONEY, BILLINGS BLASTERS, CUNHA SAYS

Assistant Prosecutor's Charges Bring Furor at Hearing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Ed Cunha, deputy prosecutor during the trial of Warren K. Billings and Thomas J. Mooney for 1916 Preparedness Day bombing here, threw the California supreme court hearing on Billings' pardon application into an uproar today by asserting Mooney and Billings were members of a gang of "blasters."

Cunha asserted the gang planned to stop the parade by bombing it and said he had evidence to show Mooney engineered the plan and both Mooney and Billings admitted it.

Cunha added consequently they "were guilty under the criminal code of California and their pardon application could not be considered."

The former prosecutor charged Alexander Berkman, editor of an alleged radical newspaper, presided over the gang. This brought Edwin McKenna, attorney for Billings, to his feet, shouting and cursing at the prosecutor without giving Cunha an opportunity to explain.

Cunha also said Billings had admitted to him he had only told "part of his story" of the bombing, which killed ten persons and injured 40.

Kenzie, that Billings be brought to court immediately from Folsom prison to hear and answer the testimony.

Chief Justice Waste announced serious doubt had arisen as to the authority of the court to bring Billings here and that the court and witnesses may go to Folsom prison to hear the prisoner.

Cunha also charged Billings lived in the same rooming house operated by the same landlady as the McNamara brothers, convicted of bombing the Los Angeles Times building 20 years ago.

Meeting Is Planned On Milk Proposal

A conference with Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, on plans for holding another meeting of the sanitary committee of council to consider an ordinance which would bar the sale of Grade A raw milk will be held within the next few days, Councilman F. H. Reynolds, chairman of the committee, announced Wednesday when advised of Dr. Kennedy's return to Atlanta from a trip to Europe.

Dr. Kennedy will be at his home in the city hall this morning after two months spent in touring Europe in connection with the convention of the American Public Health Association.

Mr. Reynolds said that he wants to give both sides of the Grade A milk question plenty of notice of the next meeting to discuss the proposed ordinance, and that the hearing probably will be held just prior to the first September meeting of council.

The proposed ordinance, which would prohibit sale of Grade A raw milk by grocery stores, etc., was discussed at a public hearing by the committee recently, but was held up pending Dr. Kennedy's return.

Dr. W. H. Edwards, Jr., sanitary engineer of the health department, has been acting health officer during Dr. Kennedy's absence.

Motor Bus Operators Seek Uniform Tariff

Operators of motor bus lines in Georgia and other southeastern states held a joint meeting Wednesday at the Henry Grady hotel with the object of establishing a fixed passenger tariff to be recognized by operators in every state represented, thus facilitating long-distance bus travel and riding if of possible inconveniences to travelers.

Besides companies operating in the southeast and bordering states there were two or three represented who operate in states as far west as Missouri. The operators expressed enthusiasm for the joint tariff and committees were appointed to work out details and to put the new plans in effect as promptly as possible.

Publix Publicity Man Slightly Hurt in Fall

After an examination at a private hospital, N. Edward Beck, district publicity director for the Publix Theaters Corporation, who was injured Wednesday afternoon when he fell from a fire truck being used to advertise the coming police band benefit performance at Keith's Georgia theater, was allowed to return to his home. His injuries were not serious, doctors declared.

Change in North Ave. Zoning Is Petitioned

A meeting of the city planning and zoning commission has been called for 11 o'clock Monday morning to consider a paper by Joe Coumber, Joe Berman, Luke Arnold and J. C. Hardy changing the south side of North avenue, between Piedmont avenue and Willow street, from a business to an apartment house zone. The proposed change was heard once before on the petition of property owners, and was advised by the commission.

Mercury Hits 97 With More Coming Today

Midsummer weather in Atlanta Wednesday, running a high temperature of 97, began to assume the proportions of another heat wave but the weather man said that the thermometer today would register about the same and that there was little prospect for it soaring above 100 to enter competition with the record-breaking 103 recorded last month.

Also, Director C. F. von Herrmann said, there is little chance of rain to break the spell. Clouds that hovered over the city late Wednesday were coming from the wrong direction, he explained.

Can't Boss Governor, Pension Head Admits

Declaring that upon the recent return of Governor Hardman from the west he had presented to the executive a requisition for $30 for each pensioner for the month of July, and that he was much disappointed when the governor declined to issue his warrant for payment, Colonel R. deT. Lawrence, pension commissioner, who is a candidate for re-election, issued a statement Wednesday in which he succinctly declared:

"I fully realize that the governor can 'boss' the pension commissioner, but the pension commissioner can not 'boss' the governor."

1,684 Airplanes Made In U. S. in 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The American airplane output for first six months of 1930 amounted to 1,684 machines, of which 1,325 went into civilian use, and 359 were taken over by the army and navy.

Export trade took 148 planes. In making public the figures on the basis of licenses issued to aircraft, the commerce department explained that comparable figures with previous years was unavailable because the license system was not in operation until last year.

An analysis of the types of flying machines made this year shows almost an equal demand for monoplane and biplane craft, there being 562 of the former and 598 of the latter manufactured. More than half of the monoplanes were cabin-cruiser types, while most of the biplanes were amphibians.

5,000 Men To Return To Work in Canton

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 6.—(AP)—L. M. Klinedinst, vice president of the Timken Roller Bearing Company, said here today that 5,000 men will be returned to work in the Canton, Ohio, plant of the company Monday.

Here for an inspection of the Birmingham branches and a tour of the steel district, Mr. Klinedinst expressed the opinion that business depression has reached its lowest point and is now taking an upward trend.

"There can be no question but that major industries all over the country are swinging back toward production," he said. "Prosperity comes with production and everything now points toward a renewal of business activity."

"As an example of what is being done now, we are returning 5,000 men to work in our Canton plant Monday. I believe you will find that plants over the entire country will be doing the same thing within the next few weeks."

ATLANTA WOMAN HAD BEEN DOWN IN BED 5 MONTHS

"When I Began Sargon Attendants Had To Lift Me About," She Says.

my relatives and friends who knew of my pathetic condition," recently stated Mrs. Ethel Walraven, mother of six children, who resides at 290 Simpson St., Atlanta.

"I was afflicted with a pernicious case of toxic poisoning; severe rheumatic pains were all over my body, and I had palpitation of the heart and had smothering spells no matter what I took in the way of nourishment. Constipation and biliousness kept me with dizzy headaches; I was so weak that I often fainted away, and I was almost distracted from nervousness. Practically everything known had been done for me without avail, and I saw little hope for the future."

"On the 21st of March, 1930, I commenced taking Sargon and Sargon Pills, and in two weeks' time I was walking about the house as if doing some house work! In four weeks every single ailment was gone. I've gained fourteen pounds in weight, and have worlds of new strength and vigor."

"Sargon Pills relieved me of constipation and biliousness, which corrected that awful toxic condition, and my whole system functions properly in every way. I didn't have much faith in Sargon when I began the treatment, but I finished it with perfect faith, and recommend this marvelous medicine to all sufferers."

Sargon may be obtained in Jacobs' Pharmacies.—(adv.)

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will at ways know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.—(adv.)

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS IN COUNTY REQUESTED

Many Petitions for Grading and Repairs Referred to Committees by Board.

The August meeting of the Fulton county commission Wednesday heard numerous minor petitions for grading and improvement of short distances of county roadways in outlying sections, extension of odd lines of water main and repairing of rural road bridges, all of which were referred to committees for consideration later.

The unit of the Georgia national guard known as the Governor's Horse Guards headquarters, is seeking an appropriation of $10,000 from the county, conditional upon its ability to secure an equal amount from the city with which to purchase 20 acres of land lying back of the Blackman health resort on Peachtree road, to be used as a new unit headquarters and stable area. This matter was referred to the finance committee. The proposition entails payment by the county of $5,000 installments for its part on May 1, 1931, and another $5,000 on the same date a year later. The headquarters of the unit now is located on North Boulevard.

In declining to approve petitions for the many new road improvements sought, Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the commission's committee on public works, told petitioners in every case that the commitments of the commission now are extended to cover a task that will require at least two years to consummate. He declared that "it is of no use to go ahead and promise something that the county cannot possibly do within two or three years."

Big Exposition Atlanta's Need, Russell Is Told

Proposal of a gigantic exposition to be in line with the famous Cotton States Exposition of 1895, but on a modern and grander scale, was suggested Wednesday in a letter to Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, by W. Brown Hayes, prominent merchant and civic leader.

The proposal is to be referred for discussion to the directors of the chamber, Mr. Russell stated. "While it is impossible, without further deliberation, for me to make any statement concerning the proposal of such an exposition at this time, it is a matter that is well worth careful consideration by Atlanta civic workers," Mr. Russell stated.

"There can be no question as to the possible benefits that can be derived from expositions such as has been suggested. It will be recalled that Atlanta first became a really metropolitan city as a result of the famous Cotton States Exposition, and it has been benefitted in the past by subsequent expositions."

Mr. Russell pointed out that the chamber controlled the Southeastern Fair Association, which has the facilities for staging almost any exposition, he said. "The executive board of the Southeastern Fair has deliberated on every kind of an exposition that might benefit the section and in view of this Mr. Hayes' suggestion is of utmost importance," the chamber president said.

In his letter to Mr. Russell, Mr. Hayes said: "It seems to me that another exposition on a large scale would pull Atlanta's population and business possibilities up by advertising to the world in a much larger way than did the exposition of 1895, which brought to Atlanta many large corporations of every description and newcomers who have helped to build Atlanta to its present stage."

"I am sure that such an exposition would habitate our new business area expansion and start us out on a new high level to reach the goal of 500,000 population. The 1895 exposition was borne in the midst of a panic, and helped wonderfully to restore confidence and boost business in every way. We have the precedent to look back upon from which we might look to the future."

Indicted Call Officer In Custody of Deputy

Under indictment for murder in connection with the fatal shooting Monday of Jake Minsk, Decatur street butcher, Odus C. Hewell, city policeman, Wednesday was virtually at liberty in custody of Deputy W. P. Reed after having spent a night in the county jail, during which he occupied the quarters of Chief Deputy Claude Register.

Pending application for Hewell's release on bond, it was said, he will continue in custody of Deputy Reed. Minsk was shot and killed when Hewell, acting on complaint of the butcher's brother, visited the market Monday afternoon. The grand jury indicted the policeman despite his contention that Minsk was advancing on him with a meat knife when he fired.

The latter resigned because of ill health, it was stated at the governor's office.

Investigation of McLendon Charge To Be Begun Today

Council Committee Will Air Simple Larceny Accusation Against Indicted Second Ward Councilman.

Investigation by a council committee of a charge of simple larceny made against Councilman W. Chester McLendon, of the second ward, in a grand jury indictment, will begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Alderman E. A. Gilliam, of the 12th ward, announced Wednesday. At the request of Councilman McLendon, the committee will hold its meetings in executive session.

The charge made against McLendon by the grand jury involves alleged payment to him of money to obtain free paving in the 10th ward. The indictment alleges that the payment was made after McLendon was elected to council but prior to taking his seat, and that McLendon kept the money himself instead of paying it out as had been agreed.

The committee was appointed under a resolution presented by McLendon, who declared that he will resign if the committee finds him guilty of the charge against him. Members of the investigating committee are: Alderman Gilliam, Alderman P. L. Moon, second ward; Alderman J. Frank Beck, eighth ward; Councilman George B. Lyle, eleventh ward; and Councilman Nelson T. Spratt, tenth ward.

While the committee was summoning witnesses Wednesday and preparing to hold its first session, Alderman G. Everett Millican, acting mayor and chairman of the hospitals and charities committee, who has led in the fight to oust indicted members of council, was called into conference with Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens to discuss municipal affairs.

The grand jury now is going into Grady hospital matters. Alderman Millican said after the conference that it was indicated a number of additional indictments will be returned soon, clearing up matters pending in the city hall investigation.

Acting Mayor Millican had intended to appoint new members of a number of council committees Wednesday, but his time was so taken up with other matters, he said, Millican indicated that he will make some appointments today. The various council committees were stripped of eight members Monday when three aldermen and five councilmen, indicted in the graft probe, resigned their offices.

58 Inmates of Tower Leave for Chain Gang

Fifty-eight prisoners of Fulton county jail departed Wednesday for convict camps to serve sentences imposed this week by City Judge Jesse M. Wood in the court's effort to hasten disposal of pending cases with a view to relieving crowded conditions in the jail.

Eight other prisoners who have been held in the tower for some time were released, being liberated by the court after hearing of their cases. The emergency session of city criminal court, called for this week for the special purpose of relieving crowded jail conditions, resulted in the assembly of 40 offenders in Wednesday's court session.

NO POSTOFFICE CLERKS HERE WILL LOSE JOBS

Survey Recently Made Not to Affect Local Personnel, Department Says.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—(Special.)—No postal clerks or carriers will lose their jobs in Atlanta as the result of the survey made recently with a view to placing that office on a better business basis and installing a system of operation uniform throughout the country, it was announced today by the postoffice department.

The survey, which was started last September, included 19 of the largest postoffices in the country and was conducted under the supervision of Assistant Postmaster-General Coleman by the postmasters and a specially detailed force of postal inspectors and inspectors of the postoffice department. "With all the rearrangements and improvements in methods at these offices," Mr. Coleman said today, "there has not been a single regular postal employee dropped from the service, despite reports to the contrary from various sources. Furthermore, the department has no intention of getting rid of the services of a single clerk or carrier in the future."

This survey was not undertaken with the view of carrying out an economy program in postoffices throughout the country, but simply and solely for the purpose of placing the postal service on a sound and practical business basis with uniform methods of operation in force at each of the offices. The department is doing absolutely nothing which would result in the closing of any postoffice. We merely want to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number."

Dawes Planning Holiday Devoted To Archaeology

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(P)—A London dispatch to the New York Times today said Ambassador Charles G. Dawes expected to devote a fortnight's holiday this summer to a life-long hobby—archaeological research. He will leave London August 22 on a trip to the Dordogne region in France and to a cave in Spain, where important Neolithic research work is in progress. Accompanying him will be Professor George Grant MacCurdy, of Yale University, director of the American School of Prehistoric Research, and Addison L. Green, chairman of the board of trustees of that school.

The dispatch quotes the ambassador as saying his trip will be merely one of observation in the company of high archaeological authorities. "I admit I am interested in the study of prehistoric man and his accomplishments in the Mediterranean region," he said, "and I feel that the work now being done should be encouraged."

"In my judgment what is now needed is the re-creation of the progress of study which will result from concurrent investigation in the different sections with a specific objective," he said. "The re-creation of the progress of study which will result from concurrent investigation in the different sections with a specific objective."

Aviation Pictured As 'Social Industry'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(P)—American aviation was pictured today by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, as settling to bedrock to rear a solid industry.

Returning from a month's inspection tour which took him to the Pacific coast, he commented that "the gold point at last has been reached from commercial aeronautics."

"Free from this handicap," he said, "civil aviation stands today as a young industry with a brilliant future in store, provided the path of progress follows the same economic course that has led the older industries to success."

"While this year will probably be the worst that commercial aeronautics has experienced, nevertheless, it will be the best from the standpoint of re-establishing the industry upon a firm foundation."

He found the industry to be suffering from the general business depression but "with no greater discouragement among firms and operators established soundly than in other lines of business."

"The impressive and outstanding feature," he said, "is the sound quality of commercial aeronautics. There is a determined effort of those well-trained in business not only to survive but to carry on the development of the science and industry."

Federal Road Funds Cut Unemployment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(P)—The $50,000,000 increase in funds for federal aid highways made at the recent session of congress was reported today by the department of agriculture to have "helped materially to reduce unemployment throughout the country."

The bureau of public roads said the increase, which brought the total for federal aid highways to $125,000,000, had caused 4,000 more men to be employed in construction in April; 4,800 in May; and 1,300 in June.

In addition to the contractor's forces, it was pointed out, more men also were employed in the preparation and transportation of the larger quantities of material required by the augmented program.

U. S.-SOVIET DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS SEEN NEARER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(P)—Resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Soviet Russia today seemed no nearer than in 1923.

Assistant Secretary of State Castle said the American position on the question was that enunciated by Secretary Hughes in 1923.

At that time Hughes, now chief justice, said some adjustment must be made of old financial obligations to the United States before the renewal of relations and raised the question of Soviet propaganda in this country.

The assistant secretary's assertion was made in response to questions regarding reports the Soviet contemplated sending here a commission to open negotiations for the resumption of diplomatic relations.

Castle also said the United States, not recognizing Russia, could not enter into any formal trade agreement such as a commercial treaty. He said there was no intention on the part of the American government of sending to Russia any American official for trade purposes.

Stone Mountain, Coca-Cola Lead Danish Article

Impressions of Atlanta, experienced by Sigurd Konstad, Norwegian journalist, on his recent visit here as a member of the Carnegie Foundation party of distinguished European journalists touring America, found their way back to Atlanta Wednesday in form of a clipping from a Danish paper for which Mr. Konstad was correspondent.

The "Aarhus Stiftstidende," newspaper of Aarhus, Denmark, devoted a story of more than three columns to Atlanta by Mr. Konstad last June. It was headed, "Atlanta, the City of Coca-Cola and War Memorial," and carried a large picture of Stone Mountain. The clipping had just been received here by Charles Jensen, native of Aarhus and a graduate of Georgia Tech, from his mother Stone.

In the article, Mr. Konstad tells of the "unusual" sight of red clay soil, noticed as the party of journalists neared Atlanta. Another impression he had to do with the absence of the long twilight hours to which northern lands are accustomed. Mr. Konstad commented favorably upon Atlanta's climate, being surprised to find such temperateness of atmospheric conditions in the south and attributing it to the height of the city.

The two greatest impressions made upon the visiting journalist seemed to arise out of the Coca-Cola enterprise and the "Kampferiet" or Stone Mountain memorial. Mr. Konstad marveled at the mystic sign "Coca-Cola" plastered everywhere he went, the meaning of which was unknown to him until he arrived in Atlanta. He wrote of his visit to the Coca-Cola plant and of Howard Chandler Christy, whose big estate, representing part of the Chandler's Coca-Cola fortune, struck him with unique interest. The popularity of Coca-Cola, Mr. Konstad explains in his article, is not to be attributed to prohibition, it having reached prominence before that condition was incurred by the nation. Mr. Konstad devotes much space to describing Stone Mountain and the heroes of the Confederacy, Lee, Jackson and Jeff Davis. It will take a long time and cost a world of money to complete the memorial, he states after outlining what is planned.

Drouth Cuts Texas Cotton 1,000,000 Bales

The continued drouth in Texas has cut the cotton estimate in the Lone Star state for the 1930 crop to 4,000,000 bales, Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell informed Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, in a long distance telephone conversation Wednesday.

Commissioner Terrell told Mr. Talmadge that he is in Atlanta next Monday when the commissioners of the south are to meet to consider what can be done in connection with the crisis brought about by low tobacco prices in Georgia and South Carolina.

U. S. Co-operating In Timber Survey

Announcement that the government experiment station at Asheville, N. C., and the Blairsville, Ga., branch of the Georgia experiment station will co-operate with the Georgia forestry service in a fire and timber survey of Georgia was made Wednesday at the quarterly meeting of the state forestry board held at the capitol.

B. M. Lufburrow, state forester, also announced that the federal appropriation to aid forestry work for this state had been increased from $40,000 to $60,000 as a compliment to the good record the department has made in reforestation and forest fire prevention in Georgia.

Attending the meeting were Governor Hardman, Dr. S. W. McCallie, state geologist; State Forester Lufburrow; Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton; Leonard Rountree, of Summitt; A. K. Sessoms, of Coddell, and Bonnell Stone, of Blairsville.

U. S. AND MEXICO MAY SHIFT RIO GRANDE

United States Would Pay 88 Per Cent of Entire Cost of Project.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—(P)—The international boundary commission today recommended that the United States pay 88 per cent and Mexico 12 per cent of the $6,000,000 that will be required to straighten the Rio Grande river from El Paso to Fort Quitman, Texas.

The commission's recommendations, submitted simultaneously to the American and Mexican governments, were made public this afternoon by the foreign office.

The pro rata sharing of the costs as recommended by the group is based on the proportionate benefits to each country from the straightening of the river.

The international commission ended its sessions here Monday after continuous meetings since July 10. The proposal to straighten the Rio Grande evolved from the constant problem arising from the shifting of the river, which now and then cuts off portions of American soil and deposits them on the Mexican side, and again does just the opposite. American and Mexican engineers and delegates have been occupied with the problem since 1922.

The bodies of Hill and Miss McCain have not yet been recovered.

Association To Seek Lower Power Rates

The Georgia Municipalities' Rate Association will meet in Atlanta August 28 to seek lower power rates for communities owning their electric plants, and to discuss the findings of rate experts who have been investigating, it was announced Wednesday by William K. Lester, of Augusta, president of the association.

In making the announcement, Mr. Lester stated that the association's experts have been convinced that wholesale power rates are too high. Retail power rates are determined entirely by the wholesale rate, he stated, and the meeting will concern several thousand power users.

The conference will be followed on September 16 by a meeting of the public service commission to determine whether a rate revision shall be made. The findings of the association's experts possibly will be submitted before the commission at that time.

Padre Who Married Hoovers Dies at 66

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 6.—(P)—The Right Rev. Monsignor Ramon M. Mestres, 66, who performed the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover in 1890, died here last night after a prolonged illness. He had been pastor of the noted Carmel (Cal.) mission for 37 years.

Mrs. Hoover, then Lou Henry, a teacher in the Monterey (Cal.) public schools, was a close friend of Father Mestres.

Father Mestres, a native of Barcelona, Spain, was a scion of a distinguished family. He had been awarded the decoration of the royal order of Isabella by King Alfonso XIII of Spain, for his mission work.

PRAYER.—"O Thy gracious promise here, Laying hold upon His word, As thy days, thy strength shall be."

SIGNS OF THE PRIMARIES.

The primaries just held in Kentucky and Virginia show that the democrats in those states have their fighting harness on with every prospect of clinching their states again in the party ranks. Virginia especially gives promise of recovering the representatives' seats lost in 1928 and the re-election of Senator Carter Glass seems foregone. Tennessee is expected to show an equally promising trend in its primary today.

Next Tuesday's primaries will be in Nebraska, Alabama, Arkansas and Ohio and each of them will have national political significance. The chief interest will be to learn whether Senator Norris, republican, who supported Governor Smith two years ago, can weather the opposition of the Hooverites in the party and secure renomination. The reports that can be trusted indicate that he will do just that and President Hoover will have to swallow a bitter dose.

In Alabama the main interest is who will be the democratic nominee to fight it out for the senate with Heflin, barred from the primary and running as an independent. The time seems auspicious over there for hanging his scalp on the democratic lodge-pole. As a party leader he committed the unpardonable offense of deserting in time of battle. Had he been a soldier he would have been shot for it.

Arkansas will, of course, renominate Senator Joe Robinson and elect him. The people of his state insist that he is the logical and deserving democrat to be nominated for president in 1932. The Ohio primary may turn up some strong congressional racers and lead to electoral surprises in November.

The outlook generally over the country reveals many signs of promise to the democrats and daily it appears more likely that they will capture the house of the next congress.

NO FOOD CROPS, NO LOANS.

The fundamental soundness of the new basis for farm credits suggested by the Georgia Bankers' Association augurs well for the successful culmination of the education campaign which the bankers and the State College of Agriculture will jointly launch on September 1.

Heretofore the farmer has secured his loan from the bank on the basis of his having planted enough cotton, or other "money" crops, to cover the amount sought. Under the new plan, the farmer will have to show the banker that he has planted enough food crops and is raising enough meat to care for his family and his stock, before he can negotiate his loan.

Under this plan no farmer's family would suffer, even in years of lowest prices for farm products. It might be necessary to patch holes in raiment and farm buildings, but there would be plenty to eat for man and beast.

More than that, it would do away with the economically foolish condition under which Georgia farmers are now buying annually millions of dollars' worth of food supplies from distant states, that they could easily raise at home.

John M. Gahm, of Rome, president of the Georgia Bankers' Association, has employed the plan in his bank for years. The result has been the practical elimination of losses on farm loans, a tremendous increase in the savings accounts of the bank's farmer patrons, and steady improvement in general farming conditions in the territory served.

The educational campaign which is to be launched by the agricultural committee of the bankers' association and the farm demonstration representatives of the state college, is for the purpose of impressing upon the farmers the necessity of raising more food if they want credit in future, and of convincing the bankers of the soundness of so restricting their loans.

The plan has already been largely adopted in Texas and other states and there is no reason why it should not go far towards solving the difficult problem of what to do to bring Georgia's greatest industry out of the doldrums.

DEPENDS UPON THE MEN.

An expert survey and statement of the state's financial conditions and prospects can be helpful for guidance of legislation to reform and realize them.

The active interest and co-operation of businessmen who know the elements and operations of finance in commerce, industry and government will be of service to legislators who are willing to be enlightened.

But the whole fiscal solution problem must turn, as The Constitution has steadily pointed out, upon the wisdom, courage and practical patriotism of the governor and the majority of the members of the general assembly that is to be nominated in September.

The work to which they will be called is no child's play, is far above personal and factional politics, and will call for a devotion to the welfare of the people equal to that given in war or in courts of justice. This state is amply able to pay its debts and to keep out of debt, but neither benefit can be obtained by men of small minds, local vision and lack of state pride.

Hence it is of the utmost importance that the responsible men of every county should become actively interested to send to the general assembly men who are capable to and will represent the conservative and constructive sentiments of their county people.

Right now Georgia is calling for the unselfish service of wise men, brave men, instructable men who will buckle down earnestly to the big business of paying the state's debts and adequately refinancing her future operations.

GOVERNMENT COSTS.

The government of the state is a great business set up by the people to manage their collective affairs. The money expended upon it is an investment for the general welfare and the investment is made by taxes adequately levied and carefully expended. The taxes should be uniform as to classes of subjects and should be spread upon the people as impartially as can be calculated.

There is need everywhere to educate public understanding upon those fundamental principles and to end, as far as possible, the prevalent notion among the majority that taxes are tolls taken by force of arms and without value commensurate to the taxpayers. That notion is the delusion cast upon the popular mind by demagogues and penny-penny politicians.

Just now in Georgia there is urgent need to have the people understand the true facts of their government situation. They need to be told that their common affairs are in bad fiscal condition and that wisdom, economy and justice demand that they be rescued from insolvency. The state is rich in revenue resources and good business sense applied to the problem of wiping out the existing deficits and establishing balanced budgets for the future can work the needed redemption.

All the people are benefited by government when wisely and justly administered, and when all the people pay their due shares to government support, especially here in Georgia, the taxes should bear lightly upon them in proportion to their ability to pay and the special privileges they enjoy for personal gain. The problems of taxation are not hard except when they are juggled for class or political profit.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY SAM W. SMALL

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Bernhardt.

With the death of General von Bernhardt, who wrote in 1912 a book entitled "Germany and the Next War," a figure has departed whose name was on everybody's lips at the outbreak of the war. In Germany itself the book excited so little interest that when foreign newspapers later pointed to Bernhardt as one of the instigators of the World War, this assertion was greeted with derision. German "realists" rejected the volume as a lot of old-fashioned nonsense and advised the general-author to stick to his business and his back-room exercises. Still, there were some interesting passages in the volume. For instance, when the general holds forth on the Christian religion and declares that there never was such a war-like religion in the history of mankind. Because of this warlike character von Bernhardt thought it a good religion for the German people and indirectly for the betterment of humanity. Such theories for the improvement of the human race held by a chief of the general staff of the Teutonic army, really a novelty in the outside world. Yet on the title-page of his book he inscribed a citation from Nietzsche, the conflicts directly and indirectly of the German people an altogether commendation of Christianity: "War and heroism have accomplished more great things than love of one's neighbor. Not pity but courage has prevailed the closer war has been. What good in this world? To be courageous in battle is good." The Germans may at one time have derived von Bernhardt's influence upon events, nevertheless, they recognize today that the hedge-podge of superman philosophy and religion was instrumental in giving the German people a false notion of its mission in the world. Such men as Bernhardt were the propagandists who were encouraged by the general staff of the Teutonic army as a necessity for Germany and the world upon the German peaceful populations of the Reich. They had their price and still struggle with the effects of the great disillusionment.

Last New World.

The idea most of us have about Siberia is that it is a land of isolation and death. The earlier Russian emigrants have made familiar with trains of exiles that run for days and weeks even through endless snowfields and monotonous forests, to the close of war as we know it. The cars simply left their political prisoners to shift for themselves, convinced that nobody could find the way back away from Siberia. Towards the close of the last century, it seems, the conviction grew with some people that Siberia was something more than an immense prison-camp. But it took the great war and the subsequent upheaval in Russia, when red and white armies fought over that territory, when Americans set on the Pacific coast and Britishmen in the East, to bring the realization home that Siberia was indeed an unexplored and unexploited treasure house. Otto Heller, a Moscow journalist, has just published a book in Germany which he calls by the significant title of "Siberia, a New America." The ferocity of the war in all manner of directions is so rich in material that we possess a score of fragments of the reality. If Siberia is to be the main, the barriers of ice and steppes are conquered, a new hemisphere, one might almost say, will be added to the earth's activity. The expedition to the Krasnoyarsk into the northern ice sea was a first attempt to discover the possibility of a northern passage to India. "No heroes are wanted from you," the soviet told the explorers, "find us a passage from Europe to Asia." The author of the book above mentioned took part in that expedition. He saw the ice, the steamers will pass up and down on the top of the world.

The Eternal Habsburg.

There is an old French chanson, which was frequently sung by the people in the days of the revolution. It was called "When will we end that damned story of the kings?" The song comes to mind these days as rumors fly thick and fast of the coming restoration of the Habsburg monarchy, in the person of Archduke Otto. This young man, who is now studying in Louvain, has been called by the king to be the emperor's son-in-law. Next November he will be 18 and the mother thinks the time has come to end the Hungarian regency and give him the throne of his father, Charles. These are the simple facts, but there is so much international intrigue and wire-pulling involved in the scheme that Europe is getting nervous about the matter. In Czechoslovakia a newspaper came out the other day with a story that Mussolini was going to loan Otto some soldiers. The Czechs, of course, are not very anxious about a Habsburg restoration. Their country, now a republic, formed part of the Austro-Hungarian empire up to 1918. And so they promptly announced that if Otto comes back there will be war. Rumors have been flying since Prince Otto has been named, that he is a difficult job ahead of him. The race for the throne will not be without obstacles. He has to be, to be crowned, to pass a victory by eliminating a rival whose pedigree was of the first order. But there are other difficulties ahead as well. He has to overcome the resistance of three countries, Jugoslavians, Rumanians and Czechoslovakians. Still, from all reports, the royal steed-chase is on. But the beautiful blue Danube is a big ditch, a wide one, and deep.

Tifton Set the Pace

(From The Tifton Gazette)

The Tifton tobacco market set the pace for the state during the first week of the 1930 tobacco season.

The Tifton market sold more tobacco last week than any market in the state, being the only market to report sales of more than two million pounds in total sales.

Tifton paid out more money for tobacco last week than any market in the state.

Tifton sold one-ninth of all the tobacco sold in the 22 Georgia markets.

Penner's warehouse at Tifton sold more tobacco last week than any warehouse in Georgia, and out of the first six warehouses in total sales, Tifton had three.

Tifton ranked second among the markets of the state in high average price.

Tifton opened the second week Monday with the heaviest sales and the highest average of the season.

Indications are that Tifton will lead the state again this week, as Tifton will sell all the tobacco this week that two sets of buyers can handle.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

A Few More Divagations on the Paramount Topic of Taxes.

What the people of the state need right now is the name of the man who has the plan and the business statesmanship to re-form the commonwealth into a condition of solvency.

If there were any other sort of corporation than the constitutionally immune sovereign, it would be in bankruptcy court this minute and a federal receiver would be trying to straighten out her tangled finances, to pay her debts and keep her going concern.

The main issue now with the people is not to debate and decide how to get this quagmire of debts and deficits, but how to get her out and put her again on a cash and carry schedule of operations for the future.

No man who may be elected governor can do the trick. He can only propose a plan, but the general assembly only can do the legislating to make it work.

On Whom We Must Depend.

That is why the election of the next general assembly is 258 times more important now than the election of a governor for every hoof of those 258 legislators will have more to say and do about rescuing the state from debt and shame than any man sitting in the governor's chair.

And yet it came to me yesterday that in a certain county of Georgia a man is a candidate for the next house of representatives, and without opposition, who is plastered all over with judgments that he is escaping from his creditors.

But he is coming down here to legislate the state out of $8,000,000 of floating debts and frame a system of taxation that will keep the state on a cash-on-the-nail basis hereafter!

And the probability is that he will not be the only one who will be messing in the job when the general assembly convenes.

Driving at the Ad Valorem.

It seems generally agreed that the ad valorem property tax has grown to be a manifestly unjust and an unscientific form of taxation. The demand for its abolition comes from canny farmers, from the business community and from the people at large.

But those who have to handle and execute the tax interests of the state are wondering how the near $8,000,000 of the state's revenue is to be cut out of the state's revenue unless some other untapped source can be found from which to supply those $8,000,000.

As yet no one has been found who can figure that replacement in the event of the abolition of the ad valorem. Still it is a known fact that the legislature could at one stroke abolish the ad valorem and find other easier and fairer money to take its place—but no legislature is likely to have the nerve to do it.

What About the Income Tax.

The last assembly adopted the Boykin net income tax, but so tangled it with restrictions and exemptions that it was practically unworkable.

Then Get in the Poll Taxes.

There is $1,000,000 of poll taxes escaping collection in Georgia every year. They belong to the common school fund and it is robbery of the people of the state not to collect them.

It should be made the duty of the comptroller general to charge them to each county tax collector, under his official bond, and require him to collect and return them, or pay them out of his bond if he cannot show any one of them absolutely uncollectable.

The plan that the poll taxes are not paid is a prelude to a real estate tax which would enfranchise a lot of undesirable voters, is all poppycock—the existing poll tax is a necessary evil, and poll taxes do not enfranchise anybody, but less he is stark naked and owns nothing but the knob on his neck!

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 6.—In the city to very long, two young men of culture and distinction were quite popular with a certain set in the Hollywood colony. They were called by the intimates "the boys" and some-what ironically Hank Swanson and Jaime Del Rio.

Their very famous wives traveled in a group of five motches higher in getting into the city than the boys, and as husbands of heavily-courted and famous women. And often at the tail-end of the party, open to discussion with frank paths the emptiness of their lives.

Yesterday Hank Swanson, better known as the Marquis De La Falaise, solved his problem. He and Gloria Swanson agreed to live apart in the future but as yet no plans for divorce are announced. Hollywood has been told that the young man is to be a post as husband of one of the great stars. He has known the colony's patronage—a not pleasant thing.

The young man said his difficulty by turning to playwrighting and European travel. Fate closed the book for him in Berlin while his wife was at the height of her glory in Hollywood.

The present two of the most pathetic stories the colony has ever known.

And in refutation of the charge that we are becoming as other places, staid and dignified, may I rise to defend us with the story that Clara Bow is said to drink all her liquids from a nursing bottle because the process adds to the sensuous lure of the famous Bow mouth.

It was told me by a "cross my heart and hope to die" use. In case you are a humorist, you will find it amusing that Hank Swanson is an onlooker at the event of Clara's taking her sustenance that way at an afternoon tea where tea was scarce.

Mexico Saves $350,000,000 in Foreign Obligations.

1929 Wheat Cost $1.24 Per Bushel to Raise—Trust Companies Make Huge Gain in Past Year.

Mexico, having arranged her public debt in New York, starts her third attempt in ten years to pay her way in the international field.

Big concessions were made to Mexico by the foreign bond holders. Back interest, defaulted for several years, was finally wiped out.

Past arrears, including interest on both government and railway debts, totaling $348,796,000, are to be paid at the rate of $15,000,000 a year, which is to be accumulated out of annuities in the next few years.

In addition to the interest cancellation, about $21,000,000 of the principal was thrown off for good measure.

So the Mexican delegation, led by Luis Montes De Oca, came out of the conference with $350,000,000 less of foreign obligations than when they started, the theory being, as one writer puts it, "That half a loaf is better than none."

To make it binding, the new arrangement must be ratified by the Mexican congress and accepted by the bondholders by the first of the year.

With her foreign debt out of the way, Mexico has now a splendid opportunity to re-establish her credit in the eyes of the world.

Whether she will or not, time only can tell.

How much does it cost to raise wheat? It depends upon the yield per acre, and the cost of putting in an acre of wheat. Divide the total cost by the number of bushels, and you have the cost per bushel.

The department of agriculture estimated that it cost $1.24 to raise a bushel in 1929. Up to the time of the hot weather, two weeks ago, the cost was expected to be about normal.

If so, the cost per bushel might have exceeded one dollar. But the scorching weather has changed all that, and it makes the cost almost as much in 1930 as in 1929.

But with farmers receiving 68 or 69 cents a bushel on the farms, the situation is anything but favorable.

Incidentally, the farm machinery cost has been spending plenty of time these days on the cost of the books. Thousands of individual pieces of machinery, sent out on consignment to be paid out of this year's crop, and being returned to the factories and warehouses.

When the purchasing power of the farmer drops, it affects everyone who deals directly with him, farm machinery companies especially.

It looks now as though the wheat and corn farmers will have to wait another 12 months for a piece of luck.

An unmistakable drift toward trust companies is everywhere evident, in New York particularly.

Who would have dreamed that during the last 12 months a year of declining prices and uncertainties—that the 26 trust companies would gain $1,000,000,000 in net income? What does the country owe to the trust companies? For the year they stood at $1,199,978,000.

Figure one trust company earning more than $2,000,000 net a month. The Guaranty Trust Company earned $2,000,000 net a month. For the year—equal to 31.6 per cent on its average capital, or 2.36 per cent on the average net funds of $1,188,400,000. That does the country a good deal of net earnings? Well, it paid out $1,000,000 in dividends and put the balance into surplus and undivided profits. That figure now having reached $206,385,000.

Thousands of well-to-do investors in every state in the Union have helped to make such a record possible. (Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Health Talks

HOW THEY CATCH 'EM IN THE ARCTIC.

Once when I was a naughty little boy, it was about seven years ago, my mother, a gentleman of position and wealth, but great business sagacity, pushed the button and directed one of her maids to summon me to the next hour or so the boss taught me more hygiene, sanitation, pathology and prophylaxis than I had ever dreamed of. Particularly, he told me to lay off my "em" it of no importance whether one brushes one's teeth, as anyone who reads even the back pages of the New York Times would know. My mother devoted a full ten minutes of his extremely valuable time impressing upon me that one must give empirical evidence some consideration, for as a matter of fact he himself invariably took cold if he went out without his rubbers on when the pavements were wet. If one must promulgate such radical ideas one should break them gently, by easy stages, not so abruptly. This dumb laity are alarmed by such startling and arbitrary.

My boss is still alive and kicking. I hope, but he hasn't been my boss now for seven years or so.

Mr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson is, to my mind, the greatest arctic explorer of them all, and again to my mind, a bit more credible than most of them. Other adventures have made quick, spectacular dashes northward, then quick and even more spectacular dashes back to the comforts of home; they have conducted de luxe voyages far above the latitude of London and Labrador, sometimes being for whole days without valet or butler. Stefansson has lived for five years in the arctic, and lived on the country, where the louder if slightly less accurate other explorers declared a white man could not survive a winter.

Mr. Stefansson says:

"No one of us of our parties has ever, so far as I know, suffered the slightest ill effect from indefinite exposure to damp. I may not say it in so many words, but you can infer from the descriptions that we waded day after day in ice water when we were traveling over the ocean in summer."

I am quoting now, not from "The Friendly Arctic" but from a personal communication. I felt that if empirical evidence is worth anything, if human experience is worth anything, surely a man like Stefansson is qualified to testify. So I asked him if he would kindly give me his view or belief about "taking cold" or the effects of exposure to cold and wet. He goes on:

"I don't want to pretend to decide anything, but certainly all my evidence, whether from experience or observation, is completely negative. I have never seen any connection between wet feet and head colds."

The Snake's Fangs Justify Killing It Without Waiting for It To Strike

By Robert Quillen

There is only one reason why a private citizen carries a pistol.

He expects to use it.

He tells himself that he will not use it except in self-defense, but the fact remains that he intends to use it when it seems justified.

From ADMIRAL BYRD the foremost exponent of SAFETY in AVIATION

"In the Antarctic we decided after extensive experiment that the extreme visibility of flags and lights similar in color to the Rainbow Neon orange would greatly reduce the hazards of our flight to the pole. Therefore, we installed orange red lights at Little America and the geological party led by Dr. Gould marked our path to the pole by planting flags of the same color at intervals. This precaution materially aided our safe return to Little America.

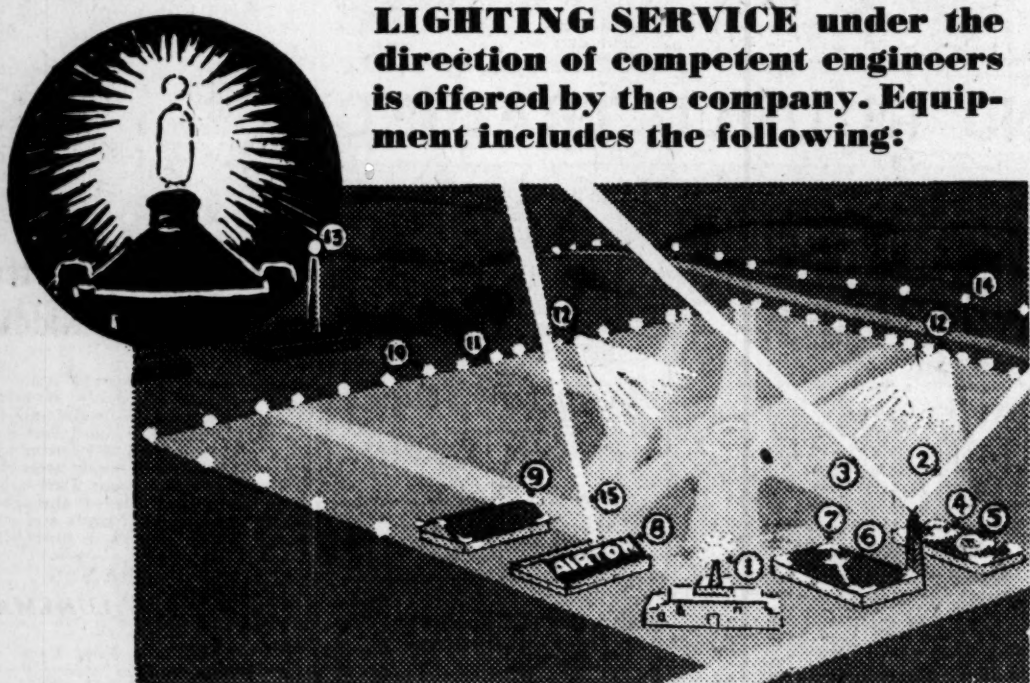

Upon my arrival in the United States I visited the Aviation Lighting Division of the Rainbow Company and found that the engineering genius of that Company had, during my absence, perfected simplified, standardized Neon Lights to meet every conceivable demand in the illumination and identification of airports and airways. Mammoth fog-penetrating Neon beacons, wind-tees, obstruction lights, boundary markers and identification signs—all easily serviced by interchangeable parts—have been developed to meet the needs of our growing system of airports and the ever-increasing thousands of miles of airways. The peculiar properties of these lights give them distinctiveness in outline and long distance visibility. They penetrate mist and fog as well as darkness. Their high degree of efficiency and visibility make the Rainbow Neon Aviation Lighting products one of the outstanding contributions to safety in aviation."

"The New Rainbow System of Aeronautical Lighting - AN OUTSTANDING AVIATION ACHIEVEMENT" says RICHARD E. BYRD

COMPLETE AIRPORT AND AIRWAY LIGHTING SERVICE under the direction of competent engineers is offered by the company. Equipment includes the following:

- 1 Rainbow Neon Airport Beacon, used for identification and its vivid color to distinguish the airport from competitive lights adjacent to the field.
- 2 Green Auxiliary Flashing Beacon, identifying by Morse Code the name of the airport.
- 3 Rotating Incandescent Airport Beacon (a 3,000,000 candle power light) serving to give the first indication of the airport location.
- 4 Rainbow Neon Meridian Marker, indicating true North, thus serving to help the passing pilot in determining his course.
- 5 Rainbow Neon Airport Pointer, giving the direction and distance to the next airport, and its official rating.
- 6 Rainbow Neon Wind-Tee, showing the direction of the wind for landing.
- 7 Rainbow Neon Corner Markers, acting as obstruction lights and at the same time indicating the roof area.
- 8 Rainbow Neon Airport Marker, giving the name of the airport, and helping the pilot to check his position.
- 9 Rainbow Corner Marker Unit, indicating the high point of a peaked roof.
- 10 Rainbow Boundary Lights, indicating the boundary of the landing field.
- 11 Rainbow Green Approach Lights, marking the ends of runways, and indicating the most favorable approach.
- 12 Landing Field Floodlights, illuminating the surface of the field to assist the pilot in landing.
- 13 Rainbow Neon Obstruction Light on high chimney, to indicate hazards near and on the landing field.
- 14 Rainbow Series Obstruction Lights, showing a line of obstructing telegraph poles.
- 15 Ceiling Projector, used to determine the height of overhanging cloud blankets. This information is forwarded to other airports or sent by radio to pilots in order that they may know how low they must fly to see the signal lighting equipment.

These aviation lights are sold as a complete system of aeronautical lighting or as separate units depending upon the individual requirements of airport or airway.

ONE after another, the difficulties of flying have been conquered. Science and engineering plus the indomitable persistency of our great aviators have demonstrated its practicability as a means of quick transportation. Today there are over 46,360 miles of airways operating in the United States alone. The minimizing of the dangers of darkness and fog have presented one of the greatest difficulties in the making of this enviable record of achievement.

Now comes the announcement of the perfecting of Rainbow Aviation Lights to penetrate darkness and fog and guide pilots to a happy Rainbow ending at their hangars—a long flight forward in the conquest of the air. These Rainbow Lights are made with Rainbow Neon High Intensity Tubes which send out sharp light rays in the most visible colors and penetrate darkness and mist to a surprising distance. The light is created by the contact of electricity with certain rare gases confined within glass tubes. These lights are easily serviceable with interchangeable parts—an important practical feature. They are economical to operate having a phenomenally low power consumption and guaranteed life of 5000 hours. Rainbow giant beacons—to flash a message of safety, Rainbow wind-tees—to show the direction of the wind before landing, Rainbow markers for boundaries and obstructions—all these safety appliances and many more are now available for airports and airways. The Rainbow companies have perfected them. To Rainbow engineers goes the credit.

CAPT. H. H. BAILEY

A Special Service for Airports

There are 1621 airports and landing fields in active use in the United States. There are approximately 4000 other fields on record which require lighting equipment. Many of these fields are municipally owned. To help all of them in the financing of lighting equipment, the Rainbow Company has arranged a special service which is now available. This Public Relations organization is under the personal direction of Capt. H. H. Bailey who so successfully managed the business affairs of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. He and his organization will direct a nationwide campaign for the purpose of further safeguarding aviation by working with municipalities in the financing of lighting equipment for airports and airways.

Advertisers and Advertising Agencies

The same advanced engineering principles employed in these aviation lights are available in various sizes of Rainbow Luminous Neon Tubes for use in advertising displays. The same standard exclusive Rainbow features which have made these giant aviation beacons possible are essential for the most effective illuminated outdoor advertisement—unchanging brilliance, long range legibility, economical operation. In addition, a wide assortment of beautiful permanent colors is available which are effective in daylight as well as darkness. General Outdoor Advertising Company engineers have chosen Rainbow Luminous Neon Tubes as the most effective of all tube lighting installations.

And it is easy to include Rainbow Neon Signs in your advertising plans whether for outline lettering or in combination with painted displays. Suggestions for designs, detailed specifications, costs of installation and operation are all provided upon request by several nationally known organizations. Simply call or write the offices of RAINBOW LIGHT, Inc., a subsidiary of the RAINBOW LUMINOUS PRODUCTS CO., with plants or offices in 15 cities, the GENERAL OUTDOOR ADVERTISING CO. located in 39 American cities, or your own advertising agency.

MISS HAND, MR. CALLAWAY WED IN PELHAM

Reception Follows Ceremony At Hand Memorial Church

PELHAM, Ga., Aug. 6.—Characterized by stateliness and beauty, the marriage of Miss Alice Hand, daughter of Mrs. Judson L. Hand, of Pelham, and Mr. E. Callaway, son of Mrs. E. Callaway, of LaGrange, was solemnized at 9 o'clock in the Hand Memorial Methodist church Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a gathering of Georgia's most fashionable society, including hosts of friends and relatives from Pelham, LaGrange and various towns of Georgia.

The handsome church was decorated throughout with quantities of palms, ferns and Easter lilies, and the altar was banked with palms. The lighting effect of the altar was furnished entirely by candle light from the numerous five-branch candelabra which were placed at artistic intervals across the background of the altar. White flower baskets holding Easter lilies and gladioli were arranged in between the candelabra.

Preceding the entrance of the bride party and during the reading of the nuptial vows, a program of exquisite nuptial music was rendered on the organ, and as a processional the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" by Wagner was used. The wedding party left the church to the strains of the recessional, which was the wedding march from "Midsummer Night's Dream," by Mendelssohn.

Wedding Party.

The ushers were Charles Rawson, Joel Hunter, Thomas P. Hiaman, Jr., all of Atlanta, and Arthur Edge, of LaGrange. The groomsmen included Ernest Kontz, of Atlanta; Fred Hand, of Pelham; Hollis Lanier, of Albany, and Judge Bearden, of Detroit, Mich., formerly of Atlanta.

Miss Clara Hand, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and another sister, Mrs. Cason J. Callaway, of LaGrange, formerly Miss Virginia Hand, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids included Misses Fay Wilson, of Beaumont, Texas; Lavinia Eugene, of Charleston, S. C.; Rosalind Vereen, of Moultrie, Ga.; and Helen Avis Howard, of Atlanta. They were all dressed in duplicate dresses, which were fashioned of flesh-colored net. They were made princess style, fitted in at the waist, and the flared skirt was trimmed with tiny ruffles of the net. The neck lines were made in V shape, and the backs of the gowns were made with a cape effect of the net, gracefully draped. They wore flesh-colored slippers, and carried bouquets of pastel shaded flowers including pink and yellow roses and blue delphinium, combined with sprays of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a white dress, and the bridesmaids wore as their only ornaments strands of brilliant pink quartz beads, which were gifts of the bride. Mr. Callaway presented to his attendants pearl studs and cuff links.

The two little flower girls were Virginia Callaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cason Callaway, of LaGrange, and Nan Porcher, of Miami, Fla. They wore little dresses of the same flesh net, made of old-fashioned style, and carried miniature nosegays of roses and forget-me-nots, with a lace ruffle forming the background for the flowers. Their slippers were of flesh crepe.

Radiant Bride.

The beautiful young bride entered the church with her brother, Larrabee Hand, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Cason J. Callaway, who was best man. The bride was exceptionally lovely in her handsome wedding gown of egg shell satin, made with long, tight-fitting sleeves. The dress was cut with a V neck, was made princess style, fitting tight at the waist line, and the back of the skirt was made into a long circular train, which fell in graceful folds behind her. Her veil was of egg shell tulle, and was fitted close to her head in a cap shape. It was trimmed with tiny blue bindings, and was caught at the back and sides by a band of orange blossoms. She carried an exquisite bridal bouquet of orchids, and showered to the floor with lilies of the valley.

Elaborate Reception.

Following the wedding, Mrs. Hand, mother of the bride, entertained at a brilliant reception at the handsome Hand home, which is one of the most beautiful residences in Georgia. The home was decorated throughout with a profusion of flowers in pastel shades, and in the reception rooms where the guests were received were palms, ferns and baskets holding pink roses, and other summer flowers. 3 POWDER BOXES

THERE IS REAL BEAUTY FOR YOU IN ONE OF THEM

Leading beauty experts all over the world have explained to women that there are three types of skin—oily, dry and normal and that the face powder that is best for one type cannot be good for the other. Plough has created three different powders to meet this modern beauty need and there is no longer any reason for you to use a face powder other than one designed for your own skin type.

THE PLOUGH POWDER FOR YOUR EXACT TYPE WILL GIVE YOU GREATEST BEAUTY

If your skin is oily, use heavy texture Plough's "Flowers" Face Powder in the oval box, 75c.

If your skin is dry, use light texture Plough's "Favorite Bouquet" in the square box, 30c.

If your skin is normal, use medium texture Plough's "Exquisite" in the round box, 50c.

Each of these Plough Powders comes in five modern tins—white, flesh, pink, brunette, sun-tan. Plough's Three Face Powders are sensibly priced wherever beauty creations are sold.

If you are not certain as to exactly which Plough Face Powder you should buy, write 1000 Martin, Plough, Inc., Memphis, Tenn., specifying the tint you want and you will receive absolutely free one of the three different tins.

Henry Ford Attacked Ex-Atlanta Dancer's Advertising Censored

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Henry Ford, automobile magnate, today was criticized by Matthew Woll, third vice president of the American Federation of Labor, for manufacturing tractors in Ireland and then importing them into this country. Woll spoke before the state convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"American capital," he said, "is invested abroad not to elevate the standards of the workers, but to exploit the cheap labor and the assets of Europe and Asia and place our own people in competition with them."

"Henry Ford is lauded as a great industrialist whose policy is to let the people who can manufacture the cheapest supply the world. We may look with apprehension upon such a philosophy with reference to the future welfare of America."

"Today he is not manufacturing a single tractor in America. They are all made in Dublin, Ireland, and imported into the United States. If that be American patriotism, let America beware!"

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—(Special).—Arthur Murray, of New York, who gave dancing lessons in Atlanta and Asheville, N. C., between 1913 and 1923, must dance to another tune, according to orders made public today by the federal trade commission.

No longer may he advertise that he has taught dancing to "ex-presidents of the United States, senators, governors of states and to members of European royal families," or that he was selected to instruct the dancing instructors of the United States Naval Academy, under orders issued by the board.

Murray, it appears, now imparts personal dancing instructions and also has a correspondence course, but he is forbidden to advertise that the latter, for which a charge of $24 is made, would cost $200 if taken at his studio, or that hundreds of thousands of people have learned to dance by this means.

FARM WORKER SUES FOR $15,000 IN WAGES

claimed that he had never received any wages.

In a suit for $15,000 filed in Bristol county superior court, Bryant said he entered the employ of Cottle on April 1, 1880. It was agreed, he said, that he would receive $10 a week wages with board and room. However, up to May 15, 1930, when he left his employ, Bryant said, Cottle had never paid him. He figured the wages due him to total $21,320.

Demented Veteran Kills Wife and Son

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Charles S. Hall today killed his wife and 5-year-old son with an axe and then wandered back to the veterans' hospital at Fort Snelling, where he had been a mental patient.

Clad in pajamas, he urged some one to go to his home, adding "There may be something the matter with my wife."

Coroner Seashore returned a verdict of murder and said indications were that the intense heat of last week may have affected Hall's mentality.

Mary Jane, a daughter, heard her father fire and called neighbors after she had found her mother and brother dead.

Under the present plan, President Hoover will leave Washington on the night of October 6, arriving in Charlotte, N. C., the following morning. He will motor to Kings Mountain and make an address there. He will leave that afternoon for the capital.

Definite acceptance of the Kings Mountain invitation means two trips by the chief executive in close succession. He intends to attend the American Legion convention in Boston, October 5.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

JIM CROW IS TAKEN AWAY.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Dreadful 'tis your own to fear. And feel your fate is drawing near.

—Jim Crow.

Early one morning Jim Crow flew down on the Green Meadows. It was just after Farmer Brown's boy had let him out in the morning. He liked to go down on the Green Meadows and hunt for grasshoppers and other insects, to say nothing of the excitement of trying to catch a mouse. Presently there appeared from the Green Forest a flock of Crows—the flock to which his father and mother belonged. They saw Jim Crow at once. Instead of passing on to their usual hunting grounds the Crows suddenly spread out and before he realized what was happening Jim Crow was surrounded. There he was in the midst of the flock. At first they were silent. Instead of the usual chatter and noise calling back and forth, there was complete silence. Jim Crow began to have an uncomfortable feeling. He decided that he didn't care for the company of these black fellows. So he took to his wings and headed toward Farmer Brown's dooryard. But the instant he took to his wings the others did likewise and somehow Jim Crow found two or three of them right in his way. Yes, sir, they did just that. They interfered so that, do what he would, he couldn't fly in the direction he wanted to. He tried his best. He flew up. He flew down. But all the time some of the other Crows kept right along with him and gradually forced him in another direction. By and by he realized that these Crows were taking him over to the Green Forest.

"Caw, caw!" cried Jim Crow, "I want to go home."

"Caw, caw!" That is just where you are going," replied another Crow.

"Caw, caw!" said Jim Crow. "My home isn't in the Green Forest."

"Caw, caw, caw!" cried another Crow. "If your home isn't in the Green Forest, it should be. You were born in the Green Forest and we are going to take you back there."

"But I don't want to go back there!" complained Jim Crow. "I have been back once and I don't like it."

"That makes no difference," replied the other Crow in a tone that Jim the other Crows were that he should go along with them. By this time Jim was beginning to feel a little frightened. He didn't understand just what this meant. Never had he been treated just this way before. Somehow, he didn't like the way some of those other Crows looked at him. They looked at him as if they didn't like him. From first feelings uneasy, Jim Crow gradually grew to feel really and truly frightened. But there was nothing he could do about it and so finally he made the best of bad matter and flew along without making any attempt to get away.

"What are we going over here for?" he asked of one of his nearest neighbors.

"Caw, caw!" You'll see when we get there," replied the other Crow. "You'll see when we get there."

And this was all that Jim Crow could get from him.

Wives of Jailed Prince of Wales Rum Violators Planning Visit To South America

WALLACE, Idaho, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Two women whose husbands are serving prison sentences for violating the federal prohibition laws appeared today to have been nominated to succeed their imprisoned mates in county offices here.

On the pace of primary election returns Mrs. R. E. Weniger, wife of the former county sheriff, received the democratic nomination to succeed her husband. Mrs. W. H. Herrick, wife of the former county assessor, won the republican nomination for assessor registering a large plurality over the democratic candidates.

Walter Hendrickson, who was appointed sheriff after Weniger's resignation, will oppose Mrs. Weniger in the fall election.

Herrick, who also served as mayor of Wallace, and Weniger were sentenced to McNeil Island penitentiary upon being convicted of conspiracy to violate the dry law by permitting the sale of liquor and collecting fees from bootleggers. The revenue thus obtained was used for municipal purposes.

Herrick and Weniger asserted the town was "wet" in sentiment and that the system of collecting fines saved the municipality from financial difficulty.

The visit of the prince to Buenos Aires will be for the particular purpose of opening the British trade exposition.

The first official announcement came from Buenos Aires when Ambassador Ronald MacLeay informed President Irigoyen that the Prince of Wales would make the visit.

Today it was announced that the British heir will extend his visit to Brazil but it was not known whether he would be able to visit other Latin American states.

Reports that the prince would visit the United States next year have been definitely denied.

JIM THE CONQUEROR

By PETER B. KYNE

Fortieth Installment.

"Guess they can stand a night of watchful waiting," he declared, and climbed in back of the wheel. He toiled the car carefully down through the sage to the Los Algodones road, after which they made fast time to the ranch. Here one of the hands took the car and departed for Los Algodones to bring back the only two doctors there, while Don Jaime aided Mrs. Ganby to make her patients comfortable.

About noon the next day Jaime Miguel Higuera came into Roberto's room and sat down on her bed. She reached her hand out to him and he took it in both of his.

"Caravelo and his men have just got back safely," he informed her. "Not a man of that bandit gang got back across the river, so I venture to say this has been a lesson to them. I imagine the Rancho Valle Verde will be regarded in beyond-the-border circles as a good place to keep away from hereafter. How's the future Mrs. Higuera feeling now?"

"Not very chipper, Jimmy. How do you feel?"

"Guilty as a sheep-killing dog. Still every cloud has a silver lining. Dingle's dead and I have a telegram from your Uncle Bill. It seems that the news of the battle got to Los Algodones last night, via the man I sent after the doctors, and is now in all the papers in El Paso."

"Uncle Bill? What was he doing in El Paso?"

"En route to Valle Verde, my dear. I'd wired the old gentleman a hearty invitation to come down and visit us, and he has accepted and was on his way."

"Thus Jaime Miguel Higuera, the liar! However, he comforted himself with the thought that it was only a white lie and was to be preferred to violating his word of honor to Crooked Bill not to reveal to his niece the news that only two days previous he had been in Los Algodones, plotting against their peace and happiness."

"You're such a dear, Jimmy. So thoughtful. Dear Uncle Bill. I know he's missed me. Does he know I'm hurt?"

"Yes, the papers carried the story. I've wired him on the train to save his tears until our wedding day."

"Are we engaged, Jimmy? I can't remember that you've ever asked me to marry you."

"Oh, didn't I, sweetheart?"

"Never."

He rubbed his chin and his eyes roved over her whimsically. "I suppose I was afraid I might speak out of my turn, but of course when you came stampeding into that coral yesterday and broke the glad news to me, I couldn't, as a man of honor, pretend I didn't understand you. So I rather took it for granted."

He bent low over her and swept her cheeks with his eager lips. "Still interested in holl weas and irrigation, brown babies and cholo men and women, heat, dust and purple lights on the buttes at dawn and sunset, darling?"

"She nodded. "Can be a good partner, Jimmy. I never had any responsibilities—and now I want so badly to share yours—always. How are your wounded men?"

"Taking an interest in life. Mrs."

Ganby is still weeping with joy over our engagement, and Robbie is jealous as a collie dog. He has an idea that when we're married he'll have to leave the ranch."

"I wouldn't leave this ranch, Jimmy."

"Then we'll keep Robbie and his ma on the pay roll. After all, we owe Robbie a great debt. If he hadn't blabbed to Ken Hobart, that unfortunate Yankee, Glen Hackett, might have got you on the rebound, although to be quite frank, it was never my intention to permit you to escape."

"I schemed too darned hard to get you here—and any time Jaime Miguel Higuera rolls the crust for a pie, nobody else is going to eat it."

"Does Uncle Bill know of our engagement?"

Don Jaime produced the telegram and read:

"I NEVER FIGURED ON YOU TAKING OVER MY PRINCIPAL RESPONSIBILITY BUT NOW THAT YOU INSIST ON BEING RECKLESS TAKE A TIP FROM ONE WHO KNOWS STOP DO NOT SPOIL HER STOP I DID THAT LONG AGO STOP YOU ARE AS WELCOME IN OUR FAMILY AS THE SILENCE THAT FOLLOWS A CONGRESSIONAL ORATION."

"SHEEPISHLY YOURS, 'UNCLE BILL.'"

"Why does he sign himself 'sheepishly yours,' Jimmy dear?"

"Some far-fetched allusion to the sheep that brought you here, Bobby. Just some of his gringo humor, I imagine."

"I see." She was silent, turning her brown, strong, useful hands, counting the calluses on them. Hands that had known toil and would always know it, the hands that build empires, hands that, when folded at last in the peace that would mean their parting, would be kissed by lowly people and sprinkled with their tears.

"It will be forever and ever, Jimmy," she whispered, "and I'm so happy—and grateful."

"The Higuera men keep their women," he assured her gravely. "She thought of Glen Hackett. 'Poor dear,' she murmured absent-mindedly."

"He never had a chance," Don Jaime assured her, with a flash of that prescience that clairvoyance, that would always make him, for Roberto, a new, puzzling, yet wholly understandable human being and a joy forever. Yes, he would be the same always, yet always new, always challenging her interest, always holding it. Of him (the girl thought) it might be said that age could wither nor custom stale his infinite variety.

"I'll get my guitar and sing you a little Spanish love song my grandmother taught me. 'It's very old. It came to Peru with Pizarro and worked north. Oh, by the way, I forgot something! Let's get this on record officially, Miss Antrax, will you do me the great honor to marry me?"

"You outrageous Celt," she laughed. "You're the last of the troubadours. Of course I will."

THE END.

"In an explosion of wrath as sudden as it was unexpected, Lee exclaimed: 'It's you who insulted me! . . . Women are monkeys! You've insulted me not once but a thousands times . . . Your crowning insult was your surprise when I asked you to be my wife, and not my mistress . . .'"

"All right," stormed the girl. "I'll pay any price to go to Paris . . . but I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth . . . Live in Chinatown! I'd cut my throat first . . ."

DAILY DRILLS WILL BE HARD FROM OPENING

Harry Mehre To Give Charges Three Workouts a Day.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 6.—Some 30-odd University of Georgia athletes will face a tough assignment when they report to Harry Mehre and his assistants September 1 for the beginning of the Bulldogs' 1930 season, which will last until December 6, when Tech and Georgia meet in Atlanta.

The boys will face three workouts a day, two being confined to skill practice in the university gym and the other being a workout on Sanford field, which is the job most detested by the boys who have to go through it each week day in the three-month grid season.

The boys will report to Memorial hall for skill practice early each morning and will also report to Harry Mehre for another skill practice as the evening shadows begin to fall. But the two skill practices will be "apple pie" for the boys, for all they have to do is sit and listen to what Harry Mehre and his four helpers tell them about certain plays, how they should be run, and the part each man has in making that play perfect.

As usual, the worst will be saved for the last, and that will be a two-hour workout on Sanford field as the sun begins to sink behind the hills, leaving only a trace of the hard, glaring light and heat that it pours down onto Sanford field earlier in the day. From about 4 until 6 o'clock the boys will be busy working out on the field, and then they will trek homeward for their evening meal and a few minutes spent in perusal of the rule book of the national game of football.

Those evening workouts sound pretty good from a distance but when it comes down to brass tacks the boys are not so sure that they will be even half-way easy. In fact, the boys are already beginning to lay in a store of rubbing alcohol, liniment and bandages with which to ease their aching bones after those star-lit workouts.

Harry Mehre is determined that the boys be in good condition before he starts giving them a full dose of the football medicine they will get daily (except Sunday) for three months and more this fall. That's why he is starting them off with a little light work the first week or ten days.

All that the boys will have to do is spend a couple of hours each day taking exercises, running, walking, and such preliminaries necessary to get the ache out of muscles that haven't been used for months. Then the boys will have to get rid of any surplus fat they may happen to have, if any. That fat removing process is the one that is going to be painful, to say the least. The lads will get plenty of work and remove a few surplus pounds every afternoon, but hard work; those familiar with it know—causes a very great pain to appear in the pit of one's stomach which can only be eased by loading up with plenty of eats. And the boys are fed well in Athens, oh, my, yes!

The lads who hope to make Georgia a factor in the Southern conference football race this fall are not going to have any too easy a time of it when they report to Harry Mehre for pre-season training in September. Some of the boys have been through the mill before on those balmy summer days in Athens. Those that haven't will soon get used to good, hard labor.

Bobby Jones Leads Spiritual Singers

By Mary Wyle Jones.

SEA ISLAND BEACH, Aug. 6.—Bobby Jones might be a great golfer but when it comes to leading negro spirituals he shows no weakness.

Bobby, naturally, has his likes and his dislikes and he had plenty of opportunities to display them during his three-day stay at Sea Island during the past week. He found baseball on the beach a great sport, miniature golf was one of his hobbies and scenery hunting and the visiting of historical spots held no appeal for him.

It was when Bobby Jones was the honor guest of Howard E. Coffin, developer, at his palatial Sapelo island home, that he received the greatest thrill of his stay in coastal Georgia. There he heard the voices of the descendants of the war-time slaves on the Spaulding plantation render pre-war negro spirituals.

They played the famous Atlanta and he requested repeats of several numbers, especially "Mammy Dinah," a slow-moving, doleful number filled with rhythm.

That number greatly impressed Bobby Jones and he soon had learned the words. However, he apparently was not satisfied and having caught the spirit of the occasion stepped from among his group of Atlanta friends and led the negro songsters through that number and his associates were amazed at his ability.

En route back to Sea Island in a speed boat, Jones continually hummed the tune as an indication of his fondness for such music. The negro singers have been instructed by Mrs. Maxfield Parrish, a part-time resident of Sea Island Beach.

KID AND 'KEED' SET FOR CLASH

Fan Interest Mounts in Bout Tonight; Berg Still Favorite.

By Frank Getty.

United News Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(UN)—It is an interesting commentary upon the present status of boxing in these parts that the most important thing the boys are saying about the forthcoming Kid Chocolate-Jack (Kid) Berg fight is that it will be a real scrap.

Fans who have bought tickets for tomorrow night's 10-round bout up at the Polo grounds have done so with confidence that they will receive a run for their money.

Both the little black boy from Cuba, undefeated in 168 starts, and the young Jew from Whitechapel, London, have enviable reputations for giving their best in the ring. Both have come down to scratch in the best of fighting condition, with Berg enjoying a 10-pound pull in the weights and Chocolate admittedly the better boxer and harder hitter.

It is an even-money betting proposition, and a shade better that the confidence of the fans will be justified this time and that "the keed" and "the kid" will put up a rousing fight for the right to meet Al Singer for the lightweight championship.

Despite previous unsatisfactory performances, boxing fans, notorious optimists, are displaying faith in Chocolate and Berg putting on an honest and worthwhile show tomorrow night, and so the gate receipts probably will be about $150,000, and the promoters and fighters, at least, will be happy.

Chocolate and Berg will weigh in tomorrow afternoon, the Cuban at approximately 128, with the Englishman a shade under the lightweight limit as required by the articles of agreement.

FARR LOSES BOUT.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 6.—(P)—Andy Cullahan, Lawrence, defeated Johnny Farr, Cleveland lightweight, in a 10-round fight here tonight.

TITLE MATCH IS SET SUNDAY AT CAPITAL CITY

Henry Grady, Jr., and Shropshire Meet for Crown.

Henry Grady, Jr., and Tommy Shropshire, Jr., will meet Sunday in a 15-hole match for the Capital City Club championship.

Grady defeated Dick Garlington, present club champion, 2-1, Wednesday afternoon in a feature match of the tournament and Shropshire won his way to the finals Monday afternoon in a semi-final victory over Charles Dunnals, Jr.

Grady played an inspired game to beat the champion. He eliminated Jim Leon Monday afternoon, 3-1, after Leon had defeated Dave Black, Georgia's amateur champion and cousin of Grady. His Monday match was a revenge victory, but Wednesday he went out to upset the favorite and win his way to the finals.

On the first nine, he was out in 36, one over par, and was 2 up on Garlington, who was not playing a bad golf himself. On the back nine Grady continued his steady game and again was one over par with a 37, while Garlington was only a couple of strokes away.

Carey Baker defeated George Gantt, 4-3, for the flight title. Baker played for a time the world's strongest man. He took up wrestling and, while he has never won a title, he is still a sensation. For about an hour is unbeatable. He tosses men around as if they were lightweight.

In Spellman, Brown university coach, he meets a smart, clever heavyweight who will be a great foe for him—brains and skill against strength.

The main event—Harper vs. Fox—is a match which Atlanta fans will be out to see. Harper is popular and Fox is a great match for him.

Tickets are on sale now at the Piedmont Hatters and at the Candler building soda fountain.

Whichone Returns And Wins Easily

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—(UN)—Making his first appearance since the Belmont early in the summer, Whichone, Harry Payne Whitney's champion juvenile of last season, easily won the Saratoga handicap here today.

Whichone raced like a champion to cover the mile in 1:37. He was a 1-2 favorite in the betting odds and earned $9,050 as the winner's prize.

Whichone finished second, with Sun Falcon a 60-1 shot, in third place.

27 Temple Players Are Six Feet Tall

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Twenty-seven members of the Temple University football squad are six-footers, Richard Lofelien, of this city, and Tom Graham, of Los Angeles, a pair of end candidates, are the "king-pins." This duo both are six feet four inches in height.

'STRONGEST MAN' INJURES MANISH AT LONG BEACH

Steinborn, Who Wrestles Here, Puts Foe in Hospital.

Milo Steinborn, who will meet John Spellman at Spiller field Monday night in the semi-windup to the Paul Harper-Charley Fox card, doesn't know his own strength.

In a match at Long Beach, N. J., Tuesday night, Steinborn became irritated with his opponent, George Manish, New Jersey champion.

The Associated Press report of the match said:

LONG BEACH, N. J., Aug. 6.—(P)—George Manish, 34, New Jersey heavyweight wrestling champion, was seriously injured Tuesday night by Milo Steinborn, strong man of Germany, who picked him up bodily and threw him across the ring.

Physicians at Monmouth hospital said Manish suffered spinal injuries and several fractured ribs.

After 15 minutes of hard wrestling in which Manish completed five flying headlocks, Steinborn picked his opponent up and threw him into the air.

Steinborn's strength is remarkable. He was a champion weight-lifter and was for a time the world's strongest man. He took up wrestling and, while he has never won a title, he is still a sensation. For about an hour is unbeatable. He tosses men around as if they were lightweight.

In Spellman, Brown university coach, he meets a smart, clever heavyweight who will be a great foe for him—brains and skill against strength.

Everything Is Rosy, John Heydler Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(UP)—John Heydler, president of the National league, in a formal statement today, made the following comments on baseball affairs:

(1) The National league race is the greatest in the history of the league, with seven clubs still in the fight.

(2) Attendance figures show that the National league to date has enjoyed its best season in history.

(3) Night baseball cannot be played in the major leagues because the constitution forbids any team to engage in a championship game after sun down.

(4) There is no demand in the major leagues to get away from baseball and get into the show business, which, after all is said and done, is all that night baseball is or can be.

(5) The majors' action in regard to the major-minor agreement is final, and no bluff or threat was attached to it.

HAGEN FAILS IN P. G. A. TEST

Horton Smith Leads Qualifiers With 138. "Haig" Takes 149.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—(P)—The professional golfers' championship at the Fresh Meadow Club, Flushing, in early September, will not be the same old golf battle it has been in the dozen years of its existence.

No longer will it be Walter Hagen against the field. Hagen, five times champion of the pros, failed to qualify today in the Metropolitan district test at 36 holes over the course of the Cherry Valley Club. The old master took 149 strokes to work his way around the sporty layout, while Horton Smith, his protégé, led the field with 138. Hagen missed a chance to qualify by four strokes, for 146 was the highest.

If the man who won the title four times in succession could have pored today in the Metropolitan district test at 36 holes over the course of the Cherry Valley Club. The old master took 149 strokes to work his way around the sporty layout, while Horton Smith, his protégé, led the field with 138. Hagen missed a chance to qualify by four strokes, for 146 was the highest.

Three Americans advanced to the quarter-final round along with five Canadians. J. Wood Platt, of Philadelphia, won by default from Francis W. Ryan, of Birmingham, Mich., while Frank Connolly, of Detroit, turned back S. S. Merritt, of Nobla, Pa., 3 and 2. Ray Ferguson, of Philadelphia, was forced to 37 holes before he succeeded in eliminating Fred J. Wright, of Newton, Mass. Connolly shot a medal of 67, three under par, on his last 18 today.

C. Ross Somerville, twice holder of the title, marched into the quarter-finals with ease and thus became the favorite to take his third championship. He defeated Eric Russell, of Toronto, 6 and 4.

Other Canadians to win were Nicol Thompson, Jr., Toronto, who defeated W. D. Taylor, Montreal, 4 and 3; Jack Cameron, Montreal, who eliminated Alex A. Weir, Winnipeg, 2 and 1, and Fred G. Hollitzel, Toronto, who disposed of Gordon Taylor, Jr., Toronto, 2 up.

Woe Bobby Cruickshank never got started and was far out of the running, as were Joe Turnesa and Willie Klein.

Sixty-four professionals will assemble at Fresh Meadow September 8, when another qualifying test will reduce the field to 32 for match play.

DAVIS CUP PLAY TO BE REVISED WHEN U. S. WINS

Plan Will Be Advanced To Play Matches Every Two Years.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(P)—When at last this country's tennis stars succeed in recovering the Davis cup from the French, the United States will make the revolutionary proposal that competition be held every two years instead of annually, if Joseph W. Wear, of Philadelphia, has his way.

With the return of the American team yesterday from France, Wear, who is chairman of the Davis cup committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, expressed the opinion that this time-honored international competition "has grown too big for us" and should be placed on a biennial basis.

"When Mr. Dwight F. Davis donated the cup 30 years ago he had no idea that as many as 32 nations ever would be competing for it," Wear said.

With Davis cup competition an annual affair, he pointed out, it is necessary for a challenging team to devote itself intensively to tennis for several months in order to win its way through the preliminary rounds, and prepare for the challenge round.

The Davis cup chairman made it clear that there is no thought of advocating such a change until the cup is recovered as the French, the present holders, attained their goal only after many arduous campaigns, and deserve the opportunity to defend it on the same basis.

The only democratic contest for congress is for the fourth district seat to be vacated by Hull. E. Albright, Judge J. R. Mitchell and J. T. Owen are the contestants. Edward H. Crump, Memphis political leader, unopposed for nomination will go to congress for the tenth district (Shelby county) succeeding Hubert Fisher, who will retire. Democratic nomination assures election.

The six other democratic incumbents are unopposed for renomination to congress.

Jackson D. A. R. Pays Tribute To Revolutionary Patriot

Impressive Exercises Held as Marker Is Unveiled Over Grave of Robert Smith.

JACKSON, Ga., Aug. 6.—With appropriate exercises and before a large assemblage of relatives, friends and visitors from adjoining counties, the William McIntosh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, on Wed-

Wednesday afternoon unveiled a marker over the grave of Robert Smith, Revolutionary patriot, in the Smith family cemetery near Cork, in Dublin district. The cords that held the drapery in place were drawn by Roxilu Kelton and Russell Edwards, youthful descendants of Robert Smith. The principal address was made by United States Senator William J. Harris, warm personal friend of the Smith family. In his remarks Senator Harris paid tribute to the patriotism of the early settlers of America who threw off the yoke of British oppression and established a government of liberty and freedom. He was introduced by Colonel John R. L. Smith.

The exercises were planned and carried out by the local chapter of the D. A. R., which since its organization a few years ago had been active in patriotic work and has marked the graves of four Revolutionary soldiers buried in Dutchess county.

The exercises were held in a grove near the Smith homestead. A platform erected for the occasion was decorated with flags and bunting and there was a graceful arrangement of flowers.

Members of the program committee in charge of the committee in charge of the exercises included: Miss Beattie Waldrop, Mrs. J. B. Settle, Mrs. M. L. Thomas, Mrs. J. E. Lane and Mrs. J. D. Jones. The program was presented by Mrs. J. D. Jones as follows:

America; invocation, Rev. A. J. Warner; work of the D. A. B. Mrs.

Robert Smith, born in Ireland in 1760, settled in Charleston and enlisted in the Continental army from Winnsboro, S. C. For his services he was given two lots of land in Dublin district, in the Cherokee land lottery of 1824, settling here in 1825. His wife was Ferguson Wilson, born on shipboard from Ireland to America and named after the captain of the vessel. The Smith family

The unveiling of the marker fell on the birthday of R. Van Smith, who on Wednesday observed the ninetieth anniversary of his birth. He is one of the county's oldest and best-known citizens. During the War Between the States he served as a lieutenant in Company D, Butts Volunteers; of the Sixth Georgia regiment.

Billie Dove Star At Empire Today

Billie Dove will make her screen appearance in "The Other Tomorrow" today only at the Empire theater, corner of Georgia and Crow streets.

The entire action of "The Other Tomorrow" is laid in Georgia. It shows Miss Dove on her honeymoon with a man she married after a quarrel with her childhood sweetheart. The story, by Octavus Roy Cohen, is highly dramatic and an excellent vehicle for the actress to display her remarkable beauty and emotional ability, while Manager Alpha Fowler has backed up this feature with an entertaining number of short subjects.

The dramatic sensation of the year, "Fast Life," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Loretta Young and Chester Morris, will be the main attraction Friday.

Tarzan was taken into the building and along a wide corridor, from which opened many chambers, to a large oblong room flanked by stately columns. At the far end of the room, a large man sat in a huge carved chair upon a raised dais. The interpreter whispered, "This is the throne room of Sublatus, the Emperor of the West."
